MONTREALERS GREET ITALIAN PLANE FLEET

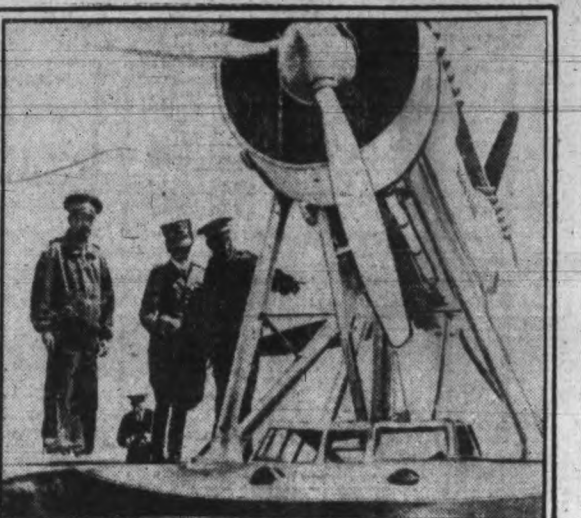

Machines Ride at Moorings in Harbor After Flight from Shediac, N.B.
They May Go On To Chicago To-morrow
Sirens of Ocean Ships and Noise of Plane Motors Give Welcome to Voyagers

Canadian Press
Montreal, July 14.—Gen. Italo Balbo to-day led his twenty-four flying boats to a landing in the harbor of this city, completing a 500-mile flight from Shediac, N.B., en route to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago.
The Italians, ending their second hop in two days, flew their planes in a wide circle over the waterfront and dropped off to alight in trade. The first machine settled on the water at 12:45 p.m. eastern standard time (9:45 a.m. Victoria time) and the others followed in quick succession.
General Balbo's flagship and two others detached themselves from the circling fleet and glided down to a smooth landing on the river and taxied toward the seaplane base on the south shore.

NOISY WELCOME
The sirens of ocean vessels at their piers in the harbor added to the din of the plane motors and automobile horns as Montreal welcomed its overseas visitors.
As soon as General Balbo's ship and the two others were on their way to the prepared moorings, the other planes started to drop down three at a time and alight on the river.
Pulling off their flying helmets and goggles, General Balbo waved a cheery salute as a speedboat dashed up to take him ashore, where the reception committee waited him.
The fliers said they hoped to get off to-morrow on the final leg of 870 miles to Chicago.
Despite weather delays General Balbo and his pilots made swift time on their journey halfway around the world to the Chicago fair.
They left Lake Orbetello, Italy, near Rome, July 1 and flew in easy stages from Amsterdam via Londonderry, northern Ireland, to Reykjavik, Iceland.
The most difficult leg of the flight was from Reykjavik to Cartwright on the Labrador coast, a 1,500-mile hop completed in 12 hours 26 minutes.

AT CANADIAN PORT AFTER LONG FLIGHT FROM ITALY

Above is a glimpse of the motors of Gen. Italo Balbo's plane, which, with twenty-three others, arrived at Montreal to-day. The picture was taken while the general and two officers were giving the machine a final inspection before the start of the armada from Orbetello, Italy, on the first leg of the flight which, it is expected, will place the 100 officers to-morrow in Chicago, at the World's Fair.

CANADIAN ON LONG CANOE TRIP
New York, July 14.—Harold Thor Jensen, voyaging in a canoe from Montreal to Victoria and Vancouver by way of Cape Horn, is a visitor in New York to-day.
He paid his respects to Mayor Joseph P. O'Brien yesterday, soon after his arrival here.
Jensen left Boston June 4, and came down the coast by way of the Cape Cod Canal. He plans to leave to-morrow for Perth Amboy, N.J., and follow inland waters to Washington.
In open waters, Jensen uses a sail. A canvas cover protects the canoe from shipping water.

SEVENTY LOSE LIVES IN RIVER

Boat Disaster at Yaroslavl on the Volga; 180 of Excursionists Saved

Prosecutor Investigates Capsizing of Overloaded Craft; Penalties Proposed

Associated Press
Yaroslavl, U.S.S.R., July 14.—Seventy persons drowned when an overcrowded river launch, taking a group of locomotive shop workers and their families on an excursion up the Volga River July 9, capsized three miles from here, it was revealed to-day.
The little craft had a capacity of 125 passengers, but twice that number were jammed into it. The others were saved.
The public prosecutor is taking steps to punish those responsible for the overcrowding.

Yaroslavl, a city located on the Volga, is 173 miles northeast of Moscow.

BANK GUNMAN MEETS DEATH

Ambush Prepared By Cashier Fatal to Escaped Convict From Kansas Penitentiary

Associated Press
Parsons, Kas., July 14.—A bank robber, identified by officers as Kenneth Conn, one of eleven convicts who escaped from the Kansas penitentiary on Memorial Day, weeks ago, was shot to death to-day in an attempted hold-up of a bank vault for use in case of robbery.
The two men were shot down by Isaac McCarthy, bank cashier, from an ambush he had prepared on top of the bank vault. Conn was killed. McCarthy was not hurt.
Six of the eleven convicts who participated in the Memorial Day prison break are now accounted for, but the leaders, Harvey Bailey and Wilbur Underhill, are still at liberty.

STARGLINGS CHANGE DIET

Brantford, Ont., July 14.—(Canadian Press).—Starlings, have left the orchards of farmers in this district, but not as a result of efforts of the farmers to drive them away. It happened, one farmer said, on a day when wheat was in place. The day the price rose from eighty to eighty-five cents a bushel the birds went off their diet of cherries and apples and began eating grain.

FLIES INVADE WINDSOR, ONT.

Windsor, Ont., July 14.—Apparently delayed a month by the recent drought, swarms of fish flies fluttered in millions over streets of Windsor to-day.
On the other side of the river from here the fly invasion was so heavy automobiles were forced to stop on the lakeshore drive as the insects covered windshields and clogged radiators.

EMPLOYMENT MOVE STIRS

British Board of Trade Head Bluntly Rejects Public Works Plans at Conference

Reversal of British Stand As Expressed By Chamberlain Alleged By Newspaper

Canadian Press
London, July 14.—Blunt rejection by Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the British Board of Trade, of public works programmes for relieving unemployment aroused strong criticism to-day in some sections of the British press.
Mr. Runciman, on behalf of Great Britain, told the World Economic Conference yesterday his government had found such schemes to be the "most unremunerative of all efforts to reduce unemployment."
While The London Daily Telegraph, Conservative, sounded a note of approval, Liberal and Labor organs were pointed in their condemnation of Mr. Runciman's statements.
The Manchester Guardian pointed to his pronouncement as a reversal of Britain's previous attitude as Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, had indicated it.
"The United States is evidently not the only country to change its policy in the middle of the conference," the newspaper said.
The London News-Chronicle alluded to Mr. Runciman's economy excuse as "short-sighted parsimony."

GANDHI IS ASKED TO SEE VICEROY

Poona, July 14.—It was understood to-day the Indian Congress Party, which has been in conference here since Wednesday, has decided to continue the campaign of civil disobedience, but has authorized M. K. Gandhi, leader of the movement, to seek an interview with Lord Willingdon, Viceroy, with the purpose of effecting a settlement.

Day Of Strong Buying Sees July Wheat Close At 91 and May At 99 1/4

MAKE PLANS FOR FLIGHT INTO STRATOSPHERE NEXT WEEK

Prof. Jean Piccard, right, expects to take off with Lieut.-Commander T. G. W. Settle of the United States navy in their specially-built balloon from the World's Fair grounds at Chicago early next week in an attempt to break the record for stratosphere flights set last year by Prof. Auguste Piccard, left. When the above picture was taken the Piccards, who are Belgian scientists, were talking over the final preparations for the daring ascent.

Chicago Interests Do Much Purchasing on Canadian Market; Profit-selling Wave Subsides

Latest Crop Report Shows Falling Off

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, July 14.—Shaking off a stiff burden of profit-taking sales, wheat futures strode forward to achieve new high levels on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 cents higher. The market closed near the top, after staging a stirring recovery.
May's high of 99 1/4 cents was retained at the close. July closed at 91, October at 93 to 93 1/2 and December at 95 to 95 1/2.
Chicago interests were heavy buyers and after the storm of profit selling, had subsided, the upturn was promptly resumed. Buying was largely for southern account. Local speculators followed the southerners into the market and deluged traders with buying orders.

CROP ESTIMATES

Winnipeg, July 14.—A sharp lowering of crop prospects on the prairies is indicated in the fifth crop report of the Seale Grain Company Limited, issued here to-day. Conditions of the wheat crop is shown to be about 10 per cent under the last report, issued June 30.

Chicago, July 14.—Wheat prices soared abruptly to the season's highest levels in the last five minutes of the trading here to-day. Crop reports from unofficial observers, now touring the wheat provinces of Canada, are expected to-morrow and sudden realization of the contents of these reports led to wild buying before the close. May closing at $1.18.
Wheat closed as much as 4 1/2 cents above yesterday's finish.
Other grains were little affected by the action of wheat.

CITY ENJOYS WARMEST DAY

Rise in Temperature Welcomed After Uncertain Weather

Victorians to-day were enjoying one of the warmest days of this year as the thermometer on Gonzales Heights soared to around eighty degrees, and in the city it ranged around eighty-five degrees.
During the morning a breeze from the north prevailed and the thermometer at Gonzales stood at seventy-seven.
Mr. Denison stated that if conditions remained unchanged, he expected the mark would reach above eighty.
Several residents and business people were attracted during the day by the presence of two celestial bodies in the atmosphere. At midday the last quarter of the moon was clearly seen high in the western sky.
Mr. Denison explained that this was no unusual sight and is seen regularly during the summer as the moon gets older and rises higher.

MANCHURIAN AFFAIRS AIRED

Chinese at International Assembly at University, Pa., Score Japan

University, Pa., July 14.—Hubert B. Liang, visiting representative of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, Bankers' Association, and Manufacturers' Association, addressing the Institute of Public Affairs here to-day, said Japan's iron rule in Manchuria had not succeeded and could not succeed.
The assertion was made before the Far East round table, where China Meng, assistant director of the China Institute in America, outlined the basis of conflict between Japan and China, as he saw it, and asked why it should be believed possible that 30,000,000 people could be held under subjection of military force by an alien army.
"Conditions in Manchuria," Liang said, "are actually worse to-day than before the Japanese occupation despite the rosy picture of the state of Manchuria painted by Japanese propagandists."

WAGE DEMAND

High Point, N.C., July 14.—(Associated Press).—More than 10,000 workers to-day were involved in plans for a wholesale strike in furniture and hosiery plants of the High Point industrial area, scheduled to start next Monday if demands for 25 per cent wages increases are not granted.

FRANCE HOLDS CELEBRATIONS

Paris, July 14.—A hundred bombing and pursuit planes, dipping low over Paris in a huge parade of France's military and air strength, signalled the official opening to-day of the great national fête of Bastille Day as President Lebrun reviewed the "army in front of the invalids, soldiers' home, Frenchmen, meanwile, danced in the streets, drank beer and shot off fireworks in the traditional revelry marking the holiday, which will last until Monday morning.
Festivities centred at usual around the Place de la Bastille. To-day was the 144th anniversary of the taking of the former prison there on July 14, 1789, in the French Revolution.
Yesterday evening there was dancing in streets of Paris. A picturesque torchlight parade was held.
There were celebrations to-day in the towns and cities throughout France.

Cumberland Counts Huge Loss By Fire

Flames at Island Town Brought Under Control Before Strong Wind Sprang Up and Place Saved From Total Ruin

Loss Expected to Reach $150,000, With Twenty-eight Structures Destroyed; Firemen Sustain Minor Injuries

Cumberland, July 14.—The business section of Cumberland to-day is a smoking mess of ruins, but Fire Chief O. J. Farham and his volunteer crew are congratulating themselves that a combination of dynamite and a fortunate break in the weather enabled them to prevent a holocaust yesterday which might have wiped out the whole town.
Shortly after the flames were brought under control at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon a stiff breeze sprang up and the fire-fighters were kept steadily at work until 10 o'clock in the evening. If the wind had been strong at the height of the fire, efforts of the fire-crews probably would have been in vain, the chief said.
Insurance assessors were at work to-day surveying the loss in the conflagration which leveled three blocks between Second Avenue and Derwent Street on Dunsmuir Avenue and destroyed approximately eighteen business blocks and ten homes. A preliminary estimate of the damage is between $100,000 and $150,000.
FIREMEN DEBATED
Six firemen sustained burns while fighting the flames, but they returned to the job after receiving first aid. Thirty-five men were employed on nine hose lines which played on the fire from all angles and scores of

KIDNAP HUNT BRINGS ARREST

Man Reported to Have Said He Heard Talk of Abduction of J. J. O'Connell at Albany, N.Y., Held in Buffalo

Associated Press
Buffalo, N.Y., July 14.—Acting on a "tip" he knew something about the abduction of John J. O'Connell Jr. in Albany, N.Y., police late to-day arrested Guy Nolan, forty, of Buffalo, at a downtown hotel.

Police reported the man was supposed to have said he had overheard a conversation in a Syracuse restaurant at which the O'Connell abduction was planned, and that he knew where O'Connell was being held.
Nolan, police said, was known also as McGovern, and they doubted Nolan was his real name.
Police questioned him shortly after his arrest.

WEALTHY MEN GIVEN GUARDS

Chicago, July 14.—The Chicago Herald and Examiner to-day said three wealthy sportsmen had been marked for abduction by the gang that seized John Factor, whose release after twelve days cost him $50,000.
The men named by The Herald and Examiner as the next victims are: John D. Hertz, former president of the Yellow Cab Company; Otto Lehmann, son of a department store founder, and Warren Wright, former president of the Lincoln Park Board.
The newspapers said federal undercover men were rushed to the Arlington Park Race track, where all three maintain stables and are frequent visitors, after government agents had talked with Factor yesterday concerning his experiences. It was said the abductions would be attempted at the track.

Policeman Is Slain by Thugs

Associated Press
Philadelphia, July 14.—Three robbers here to-day shot to death a policeman and stole a $10,000 payroll, he was guarding in the factory office of the Allied Kid Company, near Fifth and Huntingdon Streets.
The policeman, Charles Stockburger, fifty, went down under a shower of bullets as the gunmen rushed in. He had no time to draw his pistol.
The robbers escaped.

Wizards Of West Meet In Seattle

International Brotherhood of Magicians Swap Illusions at Convention

Seattle, July 14.—Western wizards to-day were on the stage where Indian magicians performed black magic 500 years ago, and they showed a brand new line of thaumaturgy, legerdemain and plain and fancy tricks.

The scenery was different, that is, but the ideas were much the same. When 150 members of the International Brotherhood of Magicians, gathered here from Washington, Oregon, British Columbia and California, busied themselves organizing a Pacific coast division which will convene annually and to swap illusions. Dr. R. J. Jeffry, Seattle, summoned the two-day meeting which started yesterday.

Ages ago, near Seattle, the Pacific Northwest medicine man used to bludgeon his beautiful assistant with a stone axe and throw her into a pit full of fire. To-day the delegates were shown how to cut her up with an electric buzz saw and burn her in an oven.

But when the screen was removed, she came out smiling, just as her red skinned predecessor had done.

The buzz saw trick, presented by "Yaghi" of Port Townsend, Wash., was a baffling illusion, inasmuch as the girl was "sawed in plain view," the shrieking blade apparently going right through her, and sheering supporting lanks like butter. The regular illusion, of course, is to screen her from sight.

The Indians of this district had an illusion whereby the magician was thrown into a birch bark and containing a pit filled with fire and emerged unscathed. It took the American Ethnological Society many years to learn it was done by smearing him with mud while the smoke hid him.

Bill Bowman, organizer of Ring No. 59, which has 140 members and claims to be the largest in the world, told to-day of one like it.

"The magician is placed in a coffin, canvas is wrapped around it and tacked down, then the coffin goes into a box, which is sprinkled with gasoline and burned," he said. "The magician then appears in the audience."

The delegates began the day with a new gag, whereby a magician walks up to any given citizen and cuts his necktie in half with scissors. When the citizen squawks, the magician hands back the tie, with no cuts visible.

John Stablen, Seattle amateur illusionist, yesterday drove a big police car around town while blindfolded, and almost hit a traffic sign. Brother wigwags laughed, therefore, when he went down to a store to find a concealed package blindfolded, but applauded when he found a quart of a medicinal preparation from which the cork had not even been removed.

The old-time Indian medicine man around Seattle used to climb his magic (and he had about 600 tricks) was of some value in curing illness, chasing away devils or procuring rain, but his successors who came here from points all the way from British Columbia to California contend it is only good fun, with nothing up their sleeves except maybe a royal flush.

GERMANY TO HAVE CHURCH ELECTIONS

Associated Press
Berlin, July 14.—General church elections are to be held July 22 to place German Protestants' fate directly in the hands of individual church members.

Announcement of the calling of the elections came simultaneously yesterday with the revelation by a close friend of Rev. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, Evangelical Reich Bishop, that all church commissioners appointed by federal or state governments would be removed to-day. The number includes Ludwig Mueller, who is commissary head of the Evangelical Church Union.

The election decision contrasted sharply with the demand of the Nazi German Christians that no popular ballot should be taken, but that reorganization of the church should be ordered and executed from the top.

The Nazi church group had contended that 80 per cent of church officials from elders up should be Nazis.

SIX ARE KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Associated Press
Eldorado, Ark., July 14.—An explosion in a treating plant of the H. H. Cross oil refinery at Smackover late yesterday caused fatal injuries to six persons. Four others were hurt, one critically.

Flames spread over a large area after the explosion, injuring employees who were seventy-five yards or more from the treating plant.

Company officials said the loss was $10,000 or more.

There are to be 60,000 hot dog stands at the Chicago exposition this summer.

Arbuckle Estate Less Than $2,000

Associated Press
New York, July 14.—The estate of the late Roscoe (Pat) Arbuckle was disclosed yesterday as amounting to not more than $2,000 with the granting of letters of administration to the widow, Mrs. Addie McPhail Arbuckle.

Mrs. Arbuckle, who was the film comedian's third wife, said she was the only heir.

Arbuckle made no will.

Chicago Dog Starts Big Court Contest

Associated Press
Chicago, July 14.—Four universities, a hospital and the city of Chicago are deeply interested in the fate of twelve-year-old Arthur Koestler's dog, "Spotty."

For Arthur, the matter was closed. Judge Robert E. Gentzel yesterday told him Spotty would not be killed. The dog was captured by the city dog catcher because it had no license. The judge issued a temporary injunction protecting it.

Ordinarily the affair would involve seventy-five cents, the city's ransom for dogs without city tags. But be-

OHIO WHEAT IS QUICKLY BOUGHT

Farmers Will Have Much More Money This Year Than Last

Associated Press
Columbus, O., July 14.—It was $1 a bushel for wheat in Ohio to-day and elevator operators anxious to obtain supplies of the grain, sent buyers into the fields to bid for the golden kernels as fast as they poured from threshing machines.

In Miami County some elevator men tried to outbid each other in their desire to obtain the available wheat. Elevators in West Miami County offered $1.01 a bushel yesterday. The day before they had offered $1, the first time since June 19, 1930, farmers had heard a dollar bid for their grain.

Stark County officials estimated the farmers would receive more than $335,000 for their 1933 crop as compared with less than $200,000 a year ago, when the price was around 38 cents a bushel.

TWO SCHOOL TRUSTEES QUIT

Canadian Press
Mallardville, B.C., July 14.—W. Brown and J. W. Harris, chairman and secretary-trustee of the Coquitlam school board, have resigned their positions on the board, leaving the three women members, Mrs. B. Brewery, Mrs. K. Wilson and Mrs. V. Pare to carry on the board's business.

Mr. Brown said he and Mr. Harris had resigned as a protest against the women on the board objecting to consideration of the application of a local girl for a position as teacher. He added he was of opinion residents should have an equal chance with outsiders and preference, all qualifications being equal.

Mr. Harris said he also had resigned over the matter of the cutting down of two snags on the grounds of the Mountain View school. The municipal chairman of the board of works committee had offered to cut them down and save the board the expense, but the women wanted to call for tenders.

NEW WORK RULES FOR THE MOVIES

Associated Press
Los Angeles, July 14.—A code for the entire motion picture industry, under the National Industrial Recovery Act, will be drafted within a week or ten days, leaders here announced, following the arrival from New York of Gabriel Hesse, attorney for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

Hesse conferred with Hollywood film producers and Will H. Hayes, president of the producers' and exhibitors' organization to-day. He told the film leaders what had been accomplished toward a code by the eastern officers of the Hayes organization.

FIJIS WANT MORE CANADIAN TRADE

Quebec, July 14.—The Fiji Islands can boast they have weathered the depression successfully, according to Sir Murchison Fletcher, Governor of Fiji and High Commissioner for the Western Pacific, who arrived here yesterday aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain. He is returning to Suva, seat of government of the islands, after spending furlough in Great Britain.

The Ottawa conference had resulted in benefits to the Fiji Islands. Great Britain, Canada and Australia granting preferences in several commodities produced there, he said, "Canada buys a great deal of sugar from Fiji and with the granting of a preference on pineapples," he said, "it is hoped the islands will be able to develop big exports of that fruit to Canada."

FRANCE TO PAY SUM TO BRITAIN

Paris, July 14.—The French cabinet yesterday accepted Finance Minister Georges Bonnet's assurance that the national treasury is sufficiently prosperous, and authorized repayment on July 29 of half of British $30,000,000 loan instead of waiting for its maturity, October 29.

TO SAVE OLD DRUGSTORE

Alexandria, Va., July 14 (Associated Press).—Virginians in this little town just eight miles across the Potomac River from Washington, have organized a society to save the 140-year-old drugstore at which George Washington traded. They have pledged $425 to buy the stock of the Leadbeater drugstore when it goes on auction sale next Wednesday.

cause Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin entered the affair, it involves a city ordinance and the practice in Illinois of vivisection.

INJUNCTION ASKED
Mrs. McLaughlin asked an injunction restraining city officials from turning unlicensed dogs over to medical institutions. Supporting Mrs. McLaughlin, who maintains the famous home for homeless dogs, "Orphans of the storm," were women from the Illinois Anti-Vivisection Association and other humane societies.

Attorney Angus Roy Shannon, representing the University of Chicago, the University of Illinois, Northwestern and Loyola universities, as well as a local hospital, was given leave to intervene. To stop vivisection, he declared, would sharply hinder the teaching of medicine.

Mrs. McLaughlin gave Arthur the dog and also money to buy a license, a muzzle and a collar.

RED CROSS TAG HERE SATURDAY

Funds Urgently Needed to Maintain Workshop For Disabled War Veterans

The Victoria Red Cross Society has recently had a campaign for funds so as to enable it to continue its local activities, chief of which is the Red Cross Workshop for disabled ex-service men.

A member of the executive points out that this campaign has been entirely voluntary, there having been no personal canvassing. The results have not been as expected and it is felt here are many who would wish to give to this very worthy cause. No doubt many cheques will still be forthcoming; but to enable the general public to give, a tag day has been arranged for tomorrow and it is hoped this will meet with a ready response.

Through kindness of the Melrose Company, their old store at 618 Fort Street, has been secured as headquarters. This will be open this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock and all day tomorrow from 8 o'clock.

Mrs. H. Fleming, president of the society, is general convenor, assisted by Mrs. J. L. Grimison, Mrs. Dallain and Mrs. S. H. O'Neil. Convenors of corners are as follows: Public Market, Mrs. A. Jeffrey (workshop); Douglas and Yates, Britannia Branch Women's Auxiliary; Douglas and View, Pro Patria Branch Women's Auxiliary; Douglas and Fort, Mrs. S. H. O'Neil; Douglas and Pandora, Army and Navy Women's Auxiliary; Government and Fort, Miss Kathleen Roberts; Government and Courtenay, post office, Navy League Chapter I.O.D.E.; Fort and Broad, Mrs. Dallain; Douglas and Fishguard, Mrs. J. L. Grimison; Parliament Buildings, Mrs. Fleming.

Many more taggers can be used. Volunteers should phone Mrs. Fleming

TWO MONTHS FOR THEFT ATTEMPT

Sentence of two months was imposed on Herbert Allison, and suspended sentence was allowed John Targett, when they were convicted in the Saanich Police Court yesterday afternoon of attempting to steal gas from a Saanich municipal machine at Cordova Bay.

The pair were arrested by Chief Allan Rankin and Constable John Bull at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. The police officers lay in wait for them.

Targett was allowed suspended sentence as there was no previous conviction against him.

MARKET BOARD IS SUGGESTED

B.C. Delegates to Agriculture
Conference Will Urge Federal Control

Formation of a federal marketing board to control inter-provincial shipments of agricultural products will be urged upon delegates to the Canadian agricultural conference which opens July 29 in Regina, by Premier Tolmie and J. B. Munro, who will be the British Columbia representatives, according to information announced yesterday. It is also understood that the western delegates will advocate federal enactment of legislation similar to the British Marketing Act, 1931, with variations for application to Canada.

Falling this objective the provincial representatives intend to press for the right of provinces to make their own marketing acts. Under this plan, each province could licence packers and shippers, but the control would only rest within the provinces.

OTHER SUBJECTS LISTED

Several other matters are also listed to be brought up for discussion by the B.C. officials, including plant diseases as affecting berry producers; the importance of seeds and cereals in the west; dairy herd improvements; coordination of federal and provincial policies on purebred foundation livestock and extension of soil surveys to determine fitness of land for specialized productions.

The conference will be held during the world grain show and Premier Tolmie announced he would inspect the provincial exhibits for the purpose of examining the development in agriculture in the remainder of the Canadian provinces.

Among the judges who have been selected for the grain show is Dr. G. G. Moe of the University of British Columbia, who will judge the wheat and rye classes.

SUPER SLEUTH AGAIN ON JOB

He Returns 25 Years After Being "Fired" For Saving
$100,000,000

Little Known Story of Glavis
and His Exposés of Politicians Is Told

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, July 14.—Louis R. Glavis, investigator extraordinary, is back on the job—nearly twenty-five years after he was fired from his position as chief of the American people's $100,000,000.

His gift for self-concealment is so remarkable that hardly anyone knew he was director of the Department of Interior's division of investigation until it was disclosed that he had unearthed the evidence against two southern power companies which are now accused of misusing and abusing government power plants at Muscle Shoals.

Glavis has contributed to exposure of many of the major national scandals of the last three decades—the Ballinger affair, the Teapot Dome deals, the Mexican documents, the "power trust" expose, the Ku Klux Klan secrets, the Indian Bureau scandals and various others.

TECHNICALLY A LAWYER

There are many who know Glavis and parts of his extraordinary career, but few who know Glavis and all of it. And no one would guess it from merely meeting him in his new office—a tall, good-looking man who must be nearly fifty, well-dressed, somewhat bald, a friendly, disarming type of man who grins often and speaks in a soft, slow drawl.

Glavis is technically a lawyer, but most of all a man with a passion for investigating.

Twenty-five years ago he had charge of the Pacific Coast and Alaska special investigating agents in the division to which he has now been returned in full command. He found that corporations and their representatives had filed about 900 coal land entries of 160 acres each in Alaska—dummy entries all, involving what was then estimated as some $100,000,000 of federal land. He got the evidence.

PUBLISHED CHARGES

Richard A. Ballinger, who had been commissioner of the Land Office until he took a year off in which he represented some of the coal claimants, had meanwhile been appointed secretary of the interior by President Taft.

He supported the validity of the claims despite the protests of Glavis—and Glavis was fired after he had obtained the Ridge and Gifford Pinkhot, who was then in charge of the national forests, in part of which the coal claims were located. Glavis published his charges.

CLAIMS CANCELED

A storm of controversy broke out over the country—which helped wreck the Taft administration. Louis D. Brandeis, now supreme court justice, and Joe Cotton, afterward assistant secretary of state, were attorneys for Glavis at the investigation and Glavis stood successfully against the assaults of Senator Elihu Root.

Pinkhot was fired, but Ballinger resigned and Taft appointed a successor who canceled all the claims.

Glavis practiced law and then went investigating for magazines. Before Teapot Dome and Sinclair and Doheny became famous he had raised the oil case issue.

He obtained all the secret documents of the Klan from its imperial palace at Atlanta and exposed them to the world.

Then came the spurious Mexican documents, accusing Senators La Follette, Norris and others of accepting hundreds of thousands of dollars of "bolshhevik money." Glavis was employed by the Mexican consul general in New York to prove them fraudulent. He did. Next he made a private investigation of the "power trust."

"Rubber Makers Disagree at Code Hearings"—headline. Couldn't they have stretched things just a little bit in the interest of snapping up the industry?

ELECTED DIRECTOR

On July 4 Mr. Ross Kelly was elected a director of Crosse & Blackwell Limited of Canada. Mr. Kelly, still in his early thirties, has risen rapidly in his chosen business profession. His first position after leaving college was with Libby, McNeill & Libby of Canada, and from there he went to Crosse & Blackwell as assistant factory manager. He was made factory manager just prior to the formation of the new company. His appointment as a director of the company is a tribute to his marked capabilities.

ELECTED DIRECTOR

MR. E. A. McKAY
Mr. E. A. McKay who was appointed general manager of Crosse & Blackwell Limited of Canada when the new company was formed several months ago, was, on July 4, formally appointed to the company's board of directors. Mr. McKay is a Canadian, born at Stratford, and has a very wide experience in the food industry in Canada.

FINE SHOW BY DRAGON PARTY

Big Audience at Shrine
Laughs and Applauds Ship's Entertainers

Musicians and humorists seem to be a concomitant of the crew of every British naval vessel, and H.M.S. Dragon is no exception to this rule, to judge by the delightfully entertaining programme given by the Royal Marine Band and concert party from the cruiser yesterday evening. The concert was held in the Shrine Auditorium before a large audience whose laughter and applause punctuated the varied items on the excellent bill of fare, the proceeds augmenting the funds of the Garrison Church of St. Paul's, Esquimaux, under whose auspices it was arranged.

CHARMING "CHORINES"

Commander Temple directed the programme, which opened with a medley of popular airs beautifully played by the ship's orchestra.

Able Seaman Challinor very effectively sang "O Dear, Look Who's Here," ably supported by a bevy of charming "chorines" from the ship's company, wearing blonde tresses and costumes composed of pink ballet skirts, white vests, and silk stockings, their dainty tripping arousing hilarious laughter.

Chief Stoker Osborne's amusing "Confession," and Seaman Rogers, and Beasley and Able Seaman Kingsford as "The Parsons of Puddle" were much enjoyed, and Midshipman Bell's announcements evoked much laughter.

In more serious vein was the "turn" by Bandmaster Perkins, whose fine bass voice was heard to advantage in "Will o' the Wisp" and "Roll On, Blue Ocean."

CLEVER COMEDIANS

Able Seamen Ridge and Street and Boy Smith in a comical playlet written by A.B. Ridge and Lieut. Bartolet in "Albert n' t' Lion," concerning the efforts of a Wigan couple to secure compensation for the loss of their precious youngster (and his suit) on a visit to the lions at the zoo, were popular numbers.

A. B. Lawson in a showy cutlass swinging turn, done to music; an unusually good male soprano, A.S. Cooper, singing "Dusk and the Twilight" and "Sometimes" Midshipmen Forbes and Barton and A.B. Street in the sketch "There's No Santa Claus" and the snappy duet and chorus, "That's Why I'm Happy" and "Sing, Brothers and Sisters," rounded out the first half of the entertainment.

VARIED FARE

Midshipmen Bell and Barton opened the second half of the programme with an extremely funny sketch, which was followed by Chief Stoker Osborne and A.B. Osborne in a Cockney duet, "Erb and Liza," which brought down the house. Another sketch by Lieut. Bartolet and Midshipman Forbes was much enjoyed, and Leading Seaman Rogers and Beasley mystified the audience with a clever exhibition of sleight-of-hand.

A.B. Northman's gift of comedy was apparent in his delightful impersonation of a chaplain. A.B. Lawson's illuminated club-wielding act evoked much applause. Midshipman Bell's sketch, A.B. Kemp's clever exhibition as a contortionist dancer, and the final chorus by Lieut. Bartolet and the "ladies" concluded one of the most entertaining programmes ever given in Victoria.

FIRE SERVICE HERE PRAISED

Protection of Legislative
Buildings Discussed at Meeting of Officers

The Victoria Fire Department was highly complimented on its efficient service to the Legislative Building when provincial officials held a conference this week regarding safety measures to protect valuable records in the buildings.

Patrick Philip, deputy minister of public works; Henry Whittaker, chief architect; Fire Marshal J. A. Thomas and Deputy Fire Marshal Alex. Munro, chief of the Victoria department, attended the meeting.

The fire protection facilities of the buildings were surveyed, and it was decided to make an extensive study of what safeguards may be further necessary. Similar action is planned for the courthouses both here and in Vancouver, as well as in other parts of the province.

In 1927, more than two-thirds of Portugal's population of over 6,000,000 seems to be: A million huns, one Hitler, and a long string of errors.

WHEN YOU BUY A

Ford

Check over the list of features of the New Ford V-8 and you will see why it is the greatest value in the history of the automobile. That isn't a matter of opinion. It's something you can prove definitely and conclusively by examining the car and taking it out on the road for a demonstration. It has many features usually found only in cars selling at $1500 to $2000.

EIGHT-CYLINDER SMOOTHNESS—The New Ford V-8 is the only low-priced car with a V-type eight-cylinder engine. (75 horsepower. 80 miles an hour.) Outside of Ford, this V-type engine is used only in the most expensive cars.

ALUMINUM CYLINDER HEAD—An example of the quality built into the car. A factor in its remarkable speed, power, acceleration, smoothness and economy. No other low-price car has it. Costs us more. Gives you better service.

LARGEST LOW-PRICE CAR—No other low-price car is so roomy and comfortable as the Ford V-8. It has a 112-inch wheelbase and one to eight more inches of interior room.

BEAUTIFUL LINES—The New Ford is the most attractive car on the road today—regardless of price. It is a style leader for 1933.

SAFETY GLASS—Used for windshields of all Ford cars. Only low-priced car with safety glass throughout in all de luxe closed body types without extra cost.

RIDING COMFORT—The self-adjusting, double-acting shock absorbers on the New Ford are the type usually used only on high-priced cars. They cost us more. No increased cost to you.

THREE-QUARTER FLOATING AXLE—Usually found only in cars selling from $2000 up. Straddle-mounted driving pinion is another quality feature.

TORQUE-TUBE AND RADIUS-ROD DRIVE—Again the Ford gives value far above the price. Only other cars with torque-tube and radius-rod drive sell from $1500 up.

MORE BRAKING AREA—The Ford has nearly 50% more braking surface than the average for cars of similar weight and size. One square inch of braking surface to every 14½ pounds of car weight.

PEARL BUCK AND CRITICS

Author of "Good Earth" Answers Head of McGill Chinese Department

Canadian Press

Montreal, July 14.—Mrs. Pearl S. Buck, novelist and ex-missionary, accompanied by her husband, and their younger daughter recently sailed from this city for England on a journey which will take them to China. Back in the Orient the author of "The Good Earth," the Pulitzer Prize novel, will devote her time entirely to writing. The third book of her trilogy will be published in January, 1935. In the meantime she has brought out a book of short stories.

In addition to the controversy with the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in United States over her religious view which terminated with her resignation, Mrs. Buck was criticized by a well-known local professor, Dr. Kiang Kang-hu, head of the department of Chinese Relations at McGill University, who returned to China a short time ago. Dr. Kiang disagreed with her portrayal of the Chinese scene and the Chinese mentality in an article published in The Chinese Christian Student.

At the time Mrs. Buck replied and in an interview here just before sailing she again took up the subject, declaring she believed Dr. Kiang to be so preoccupied with the intellectual that he failed to apprehend the emotional aspects of the East. The Chinese, she felt from her own experience, were not as frequently represented, fatalistic and bound to the past, but actively struggling with the identical problems that beset Western peoples.

After visiting London and Paris, Mrs. Buck, her husband, J. Lossing Buck, and Janice, their younger child, may possibly go on to some of the Scandinavian countries before sailing for China from Italy in September. Mr. Buck will continue doing economic research in rural life in the Nanking district for the Institute of Pacific Relations. Their elder daughter is at school in the United States.

Dinner Frocks Has Quaint Touch

Irene Hervey

Hollywood—Wash fabrics fashion some of the clothes you find yourself looking at admiringly at dinner time, these days.

Irene Hervey wore a leaf green organdie blouse atop a white crepe bias-cut skirt. The blouse had two ruffles around the bottom—peplum effect—and a silk wash ashen of darker green tied around the waist just above the ruffles.

Circular ruffles formed the cape sleeves. The neckline was plain and square.

Dancing at the Coconut Grove with St. Bartlett, Boots Mallory wore a two-piece outfit consisting of a red gingham formal dress and a white pique jacket lined with the gingham. The gingham showed on the back of the turned-down collar and on the lapels.

Lupe Vélez wore a white linen dress. The other night when she was dining at the Coconut Grove with Johnny Weissmuller, she wore a yellow and white organdie having a high waisted skirt and tucked-in backless waist.

Lupe's swager coat was hip-length and she completed her ensemble with bright green sandals.

When Arline Judge danced in the Roosevelt Blossom Room with her director-husband, Wesley Ruggles, she wore a pale green starched lace dress. The skirt had a rippling fullness from waistline to hem. A printed belt of highly colored flowers divided the top and bottom of the gown so distinctly as to give a definite two-piece effect.

SNAKE SCARES WOMAN IN FLAT

Yellow Reptile Lurks in Apartment Wall, Terrifying Seven Families

Man So Frightened He Couldn't Yell; Woman Caught Alone in Kitchen

New York, July 14.—When Desmond Collins saw the snake the neighbors advised him to stick to beer, but when Mrs. Maude Thompson saw it, too, there was nothing left for them but to believe.

Believing in snakes is one thing. Believing that one particular snake is squirming at large through a Harlem apartment house is another. It makes neither for peace of mind, a healthy appetite or a good night's sleep.

That is the general situation at 20 East 115th Street, a five-story tenement, where seven Negro families were tiptoeing through the halls yesterday and sitting with their feet well off the floors in constant dread of a menacing rattle, a hiss and a slither of reptilian scales across the carpets.

THE FIRST APPARITION

It was just two weeks ago that Desmond, the first assistant janitor, saw the snake as he was returning home from lodge meeting. It was about midnight and Desmond was weary. As he entered the front door, something made him glance up.

Stretched across the transom was a slender yellow rope—or so he thought. Then the rope began to move.

"I shut my eyes and tried to holler," Desmond relates. "I couldn't holler and I couldn't run. Seems like I was there for days. Then I opened one eye and squinted up. Snake was gone. Minute later, so was I."

Desmond told a convincing story the next day, but Harlem, like Missouri, has to be shown. Came yesterday.

Mrs. Thompson, who runs the Maude Beauty Shoppe, was trying some eggs for breakfast in her first floor rear apartment. She heard a rattling in a dish closet over the kitchen sink. It was the third time she had heard the sound just as she was trying eggs.

With her skill in one hand and her heart in her mouth, she opened the door. There was the snake, very yellow, very menacing and of the general proportions of an adult box constrictor, according to Mrs. Thompson. As she stared, the snake retreated through a hole in the back of the closet and disappeared behind the wall. A Mrs. Perkins, who lives on 115th Street and is stone deaf, did not hear Mrs. Thompson's scream. To the rest of Harlem, however, it was as though a noon whistle had blown two hours before schedule.

POLICE FIFER FAILS

Patrolman Patrick Bohlen led the converging armies of policemen, fire trucks, ambulances and general citizenry. Recalling the anti-reptilian activities of his patron saint, he tried to chase the snake into the open. He rapped on the walls, he looked under chairs, he even tried to pipe a seductive tune on his police whistle.

He was still silent, cross-legged on the floor, blowing his whistle, when the emergency squad arrived. Theirs was to find the snake. It was somewhere in the walls, but whether on the first floor or the fifth, no one could tell.

"Dr. Sam Del, an East Indian snake-oil salesman, who lives 71 East 114th Street, was summoned on the chance it might have been one of his proteges. The snake doctor was sure the reptile was not his. Both his bull snakes and his rattler were safe at home. He, too, tried to find the yellow snake, but could not.

Head Keeper Toomey of the Bronx Zoo was sure of one thing—it's no rattler.

"It's probably a chicken-snake," he said. "It's non-poisonous. That's the only snake I know of that likes eggs." "Poisonous or not," retorted Mrs. Thompson, "how would you like a snake walking around in your apartment?"

FRENCH LAWYER VISITING U.S.

Invited to address the convention of the National Federation of American Women in Chicago, Mme. Marcelle Kraemer-Bach, noted French lawyer and feminist, pictured before leaving Paris. A former secretary of the Radical-Socialist Party, Mme. Kraemer-Bach served as Charge de Mission in the Herriot Cabinet.

DUNCAN RESIDENT DIES
Duncan, July 14.—News was received in Duncan yesterday of the sudden death of Mrs. B. M. Ansell, wife of the clerk of the municipality of North Cowichan, and daughter of E. A. Wood, one of the pioneers of the district. Mr. and Mrs. Ansell and their son, were on a holiday motor trip, when Mrs. Ansell was taken ill in Roseburg, Oregon. The deepest sympathy will go out to the bereaved husband, son and father.

CHICAGO NOT WORLD'S FAIR

"It's a U.S. Fair With Here and There an Outside Exhibit," Says J. H. Beatty

"The Chicago fair is not a world's fair. It is a United States fair, with here and there an outside exhibit. They do not claim it is a world's fair, but it is a Century of Progress," said James H. Beatty, M.P.P., in addressing the Rotary Club at its recent Rotary luncheon to-day on the Empire Hotel, which he attended.

Mr. Beatty, in commenting on the architecture of the exhibition buildings, stated he was not enough of a modern to consider a hothouse beautiful. He still preferred the Gothic, Roman, Grecian and Tudor styles, all of which were apparently conspicuous by their absence at Chicago.

The almost unbearable heat during the Boston convention was emphasized by Mr. Beatty. This factor was just one which tended to bring out the danger of an organized minority at a big gathering, the speaker affirmed. Personally, he thought the strength of Rotary lay in the small district clubs. The trouble with a large convention was that it would pass almost any resolution. Mr. Beatty felt that if there had been a motion to supply all the international directors with a private yacht, it would have been passed.

The directors, he said, were instrumental in cutting the budget. Salaries paid the secretariat and traveling expenses were curtailed. There was a surplus of $200,000 in the treasury. The total number of Rotary clubs was 3,599 and the membership list was 147,000, both figures only slightly under the highest ever reached. Mr. Beatty considered the manner in which membership had held up in the last year was noteworthy.

The speaker outlined the day-by-day activities of the convention and the directors. He mentioned the British Empire dinner, the hearing of the Boston Symphony, the participation in the ceremonies of the Rotarian Admiral Byrd. The finest speech of the week, he said, was delivered by Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University of Toronto.

KLONDYKE KATE TO WED SOON

Former Dawson Dance Hall Girl to Be Bride of John Matson

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 14.—Klondyke Kate (Mrs. Kate Rockwell), arrived here this morning from Seattle for her marriage to John Matson, a romance which started in Dawson, "T.T." on Christmas Eve, 1900, when Kate was a dazzling dance hall girl who won Matson's shy admiration.

The wedding will not be to-day, she said, but will take place within the next few days. A definite time has not been set.

The ceremony will be performed by Rev. George Pringle, a "sky pilot" in the days of the gold rush.

FENG'S TROOPS RECAPTURE CITY

Associated Press
Shanghai, July 4.—A clash between Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang's forces and Manchukuo guards on the system Jenli-froon, Chinese dispatches said to-day, resulted in the capture of Dolonor by Feng's troops. The city, which is in Chahar Province just across the border from Jehol, was taken yesterday, reports reaching here from Kalgan said. They added the Manchukuoans had fled across the border.

The reported engagement was part of Gen. Feng's campaign to regain Jehol and China's most provinces of Manchuria which were seized by the Japanese and Manchukuo. The Chinese Nationalist Government in Nanking, although opposed to Feng's activities because of its recent peace negotiations with the Japanese, has indicated no force will be used against him.

Laird Watt Beaten In Ottawa Tourney

Ottawa, July 14.—Laird Watt, McGill University tennis player, singles champion of Quebec, was eliminated yesterday from the eastern Canada tournament by a slight, twenty-three-year-old Ottawa boy, George Leclerc. The latter caused a major upset in defeating the tall, bespectacled collegian, 6-7, 6-3.

Marcel Rainville, Canada's number one player, advanced to the semi-finals with an easy win over Bob Murray, another McGill man. Keeping pace with him was J. C. I. Edwards, Ottawa, who eliminated Grant McLean, Toronto, to singles titleholder and Ross Wilson, Toronto, who stroked his way to a 6-4, 6-4 win over Leslie Read, Montreal.

PLANNING FOR TRAIL RIDES

Interesting Resume Given of Ten-year-old Riding Order in Canadian Rockies

Banff, Alta., July 14.—"Now ten years old, the Order of Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies has proved itself a vigorous infant, with eyes aglow for new trails to conquer," said Col. Phil Moore of Banff, in a reminiscent interview to-day. This noted hunter, guide, lecturer, Princeton athlete and former president of the Trail Riders, said further that the order is "the last refuge from the tedium of city life, and we can promise that every doctor, author, cowboy, professor, business man and Indian chief will forget every care if he joins the four-day ride, starting from Lake Louise July 28." Founded in 1923 by John Murray Gibbon, Montreal author and musician, the order now has thousands of members in almost every country of the globe, its latest life-members being the King and Queen of Siam, who have organized a like order in the Siamese national parks. The trail ride out this year will follow the Bow River up to Bow Lake, for the first night's camp with a side trip to Peyto Lake. The second day will cover Dolomite Pass to Isabel Lake, where camp will be made. The third day's trek will proceed along the Siffleur River to camp number three on the Pipestone, and the fourth will mark the return to Lake Louise.

"So far as I know," said Col. Moore, "only three members have made all the nine rides in full—Carl Ringius, the famous animal painter of New York; Fletcher P. Brady of Providence and myself. Our first ride lasted only one day, covering the high line trail of the Yoho Valley, a route high up among the glaciers and through alpine meadows, thick with wild flowers, and we had distinguished company to boot."

Among that pioneer cavalcade were Reginald Townsend, editor of Country Life in New York; the late Charles D. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute in Washington with Mrs. Walcott, author of the monumental "Wildflowers of North America"; the late Dr. Cora Best, Minneapolis physician; Richard Kimbel, New York painter; Lady Loughshed of Calgary; Belmont Brown, painter of Banff and New York; Mrs. Mary Warren, Banff authority on wild flowers; Capt. A. H. McCarthy, conqueror of Mt. Logan; Koozeney Chief Louis Arbel; Tom Wilson, Banff pioneer and discoverer of Lake Louise; Jim Brewster, mayor of Banff and now president of the Trail Riders; R. H. Palenke, Chicago artist; and Walter D. Wilcox of Washington, mountain climber, president of the order for a term and author of the first book on Lake Louise.

Since then most of the rides have been four days' long and their popularity has grown steadily. Col. Moore is surprised only at the dwindling proportion of older persons in the annual rides. "We get plenty of younger people," said the colonel, "but those old-timers could show them a few things about the outdoor life. I wonder if the rugged oldster is extinct. May be the motor car and steam heat have softened his tough fibre. We've got a few for the ride so far, but not enough yet to restore their former prestige on the trails."

BUTTER QUOTA PLAN OPPOSED

Auckland, N.Z., July 14.—The New Zealand Dairy Board yesterday announced its firm opposition to any quota restrictions on exportation of New Zealand butter. The quota scheme was suggested by the government of Premier G. W. Forbes following representations from the United Kingdom on the subject of New Zealand's large butter exports.

The Dairy Board furthermore stated it would resist any attempt by Great Britain to impose such restrictions, declaring the dairy farmers believed that if the New Zealand government should endeavor to enforce the scheme, it would be unseated.

"GONE FISHING—STORE CLOSED" LATEST SIGN

Reporter of The Times Revisiting San Francisco Writes About Interesting Things He Has Found There; High-pressure Salesmen; Everyone Loves Youngsters.

By F. J. MERRIMAN

Special Representative of The Victoria Daily Times

San Francisco, July 13 (By mail).—Before taking the flutter into "South of Market," we had been to the Palace Hotel to call on the transportation company to return by boat. A lot of people are travelling north. You have to make reservations well ahead. All big cities are much alike we agreed. There's very little difference between here and Vancouver, so we went other places. But before talking about that I must tell you about a big sign outside a closed store on busy Market Street, near Second. I think it was.

"Gone fishing; Store closed until July 21," Zimmerman, the sign read. We discussed the humiliation and fear of Vancouver and tourist wise-cracks Victoria merchants would feel if one of its well-known downtown merchants pulled the same stunt. But we learned everybody in San Francisco knows Zimmerman and his business because of his fishing trips. He must be like Clark Gable and his ears when Clark said: "I don't care what they say about me as long as they talk about me."

Big or small, San Francisco stores, from the small open front westward to the great department store, are strong for arresting signs.

DOORLESS STORES

"One hundred thousand magazines, five cents," was the sign outside another store. It was one of the many doorless stores. A few yards away the medicine show man was going strong with a skeleton in a cabinet lined with black and purple velvet, spotlights playing upon it and a beautiful girl helping in the show. I guess he had just finished his spell and free show and had started to sell. The people were trooping out. A few doors away in another open store, the diamond and jewelry auctioneer—and he looked born to the business—was offering bargains. Seven-teen and a half dollars was his price during the short time I was in there for a watch with 32 jewels and a couple of diamond pins.

He had put it up to twenty diamonds and a couple of watches all for $12.50 before I left.

They are great on spelling to sell their wares here. Outside the meat window an employee with a booming baritone voice was pointing out the choice cuts, yelling out the prices and chalking them up on a blackboard at the same time.

Then he directed the people into the store, lit a cigar, and rested on his laurels for a few minutes. Inside the store—I think it was the same store—a girl in nurse's uniform was selling foot appliances. She had a clever line and the assurance of Mussolini. She was demonstrating with a skeleton foot. It was a cut-rate department store and was jammed with customers.

There was an elderly man outside the transportation office, smiling and holding up his walking cane to a little girl inside. It seemed a queer thing to do so I watched the incident. He came inside and showed the tot the head of the cane. It was in the form of a bulldog's head and he made it open and shut his mouth. The kid was fascinated. Then he put his hand in his pocket and handed the youngster a toy policeman's badge that made strange noises. It was no advertising stunt, and he had a hundred balloons to make ninety more kids happy during the day.

This was only an incident but Californians have a reputation of being crazy about kids. At a shelter-in-palace the proprietor throws the place open Christmas day and feeds every newboy in the city.

Two blocks off Market, where the main stores and buildings are and the picture changes completely. There are pawnbrokers' shops galore. At least I presume they are pawnbrokers. There are no golden birds outside to indicate it, but I should not imagine any store could collect such an astounding variety of articles any other way. I saw an army of pawned goods.

Five cent cigars are handed over the counter in a steady rush. You can get them two for 5, "irregular shapes, but all good smokers."

We bought a brand of cigarettes we thought were wows when we lived in San Francisco before the war. They seemed a washout now, so we put them on one side to pass out generously to friends on our return to Victoria.

Things promised to be so interesting here we thought it advisable to jot down a note once in a while, but for the first time as long as I can remember, we hadn't even a pencil stub between us. That proved an advantage. We decided to buy one, and that led us into the queerest store we have ever been in in our lives.

An aged storekeeper, who looked like Mark Twain, came to life, came forward and asked us to buy a pencil.

"Have you got pencils?" we asked. "Yes, what kind would you like?" "Soft, please."

"What color?" "We began to wonder if he were pulling our legs, but he was sincere. He pressed a pretty pink one on us.

It was such a remarkable store we tried to get in conversation with him. It was as big as a warehouse, and loaded like one. Pipes predominated. Eventually we got him on the subject of pipes. For fifty years he had been specializing in pipes in San Francisco.

"I have pipes here from every country in the world where they know what a pipe is," he told us. He also seemed to have every kind of pipe people have been smoking since Sir Walter Raleigh

H.M.S. Dragon Officers Are Delightful Hosts

Capt. Wake-Walker and Officers Entertain Aboard Ship Yesterday

About 200 Victorians Enjoy "Pre-dinner" Party; Cruiser Decorated

Social activities which usually come to a halt during the "dog days" have been given a welcome fillip by the presence in port of H.M.S. Dragon, and an unwelcome air of gaiety replaced the usual workmanlike aspect of the cruiser yesterday afternoon when Capt. W. F. Wake-Walker, R.N., O.B.E., and the officers were "at home" prior to the dinner hour. Flags, bunting and flowers lent a festive air to the decks, and about 200 guests were invited to partake of the naval hosts' delightful hospitality.

The invited guests included: His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson, Major and Mrs. A. S. Humphreys, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. D. Fairbairn, the Bishop of Columbia and Mrs. Schofield, the Bishop of Victoria, the Premier of British Columbia, Hon. Senator and Mrs. J. H. King, the Chief Justice of British Columbia and Mrs. MacDonald, Miss MacDonald, Hon. Senator and Mrs. G. H. Barnard, Hon. Senator and Mrs. R. P. Green, Hon. Mr. Justice and Mrs. Archer Martin, Hon. St. Aidan's W.M.S.—A very interesting meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Aidan's United Church was held in the attractive garden of Mrs. Thomson, Pelham Road, on Tuesday. After a hymn and the Lord's prayer, a scripture reading was given by Miss Irvine. Mrs. Dawson gave some meditations on the story of Ruth. A report of the meeting at Fairfield, where the supplies had been concluded, delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses and a pleasant social time was enjoyed. The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Haley, Gordon Road.

Emmanuel Ladies Aid—The Ladies Aid of Emmanuel Baptist Church held an annual picnic at the Japanese Gardens on Tuesday. The day was a success and all enjoyed the outing. Mrs. H. H. Hinchliffe, president, distributed the prizes and the day was a success.

She Finds "There are Many Advantages in using CERTO"

"—I can speak highly of Certo because there are many advantages that go with its use"

states Mrs. F. W. Barwell,
Fredericton, N.B., Jam and Jelly Champion

"CERTO is easy to use. It never fails. Banishes hit or miss methods with fruits like cherries, strawberries, raspberries which are hard to make jelly."

"Over a period of 3 or 4 years of exhibiting at Fairs I have won close to 100 prizes, with many firsts. Also 2 sweepstake prizes at Fredericton for having largest and best exhibit in domestic science department 1931 and 1932."

"I consider my success as a jam and jelly maker in no small measure due to the merits of Certo," concludes Mrs. Barwell.

You, too, can be as successful as Mrs. Barwell in all your jam and jelly making if you start using Certo. Results will both surprise and delight if you follow carefully the recipes found in the booklet under the label on every Certo bottle.

Start now with Certo—and the greatest variety is yours. You may use any fruit you like—fresh, canned or diced—or fruit juice!

CERTO

- Is fruit pectin.
- The natural jelling substance extracted from fruit.
- Jells the juice that would have boiled away by the old (long-boil) method.
- Makes 50% more jam or jelly at less cost per jar.
- Saves ½ the time. Saves the fruit.
- Keeps the fruit the same color.
- Permits the use of any fruit—fresh, canned or diced—or fruit juice.

DIVORCE SUITS
NOT CONTESTED

Paris, July 14.—Prince Serge Mdivani says neither he nor his brother, Prince David, intends to contest the suits for separation brought by their wives, Mary McCormick, the opera singer, and Mrs. Murray, film actress.

Both husbands, he states, retain for their wives "friendliness and a feeling of admiration."

The ex-princes, members of the former Georgian nobility (Georgia is now a republic), plan to leave for the United States on the liner Europa Saturday to resume their oil business. Serge denied they had had any difficulties in getting visas.

OTHER SIGNS
If she is a very methodical mother and has been marking down his weekly rate of gain and noting his stools, she will have other data to confirm the nature of the difficulty. Usually the baby is gaining less than the normal amount for his age. Also the stools will most likely be infrequent enough to warrant the accusation of constipation, or there will be loose stools of a greenish, musty consistency, a fairly constant indication of under-nourishment, especially when combined with the above symptoms.

This is not the time to try to coax the baby back to sleep with drinks of water or pacifiers. Nor is it humane to let him howl it out. It is exactly the moment to ask whether nursing can last through the next month and by what method.

COMPLEMENTARY FEEDINGS
A complementary feeding after each nursing will not dangerously tax the baby's digestion. Write for my leaflet, "How to Prepare Complementary Feedings," sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. Sometimes the amount of the additional foods, cereal, orange juice and vegetables may be materially increased so that baby receives considerably more nutrition. Then nursing can be continued until September, which is usually cool enough for the serious weaning process to be initiated. The baby who inspired this article was gaining only three ounces a week and was less than six months old, so that under-nourishment could not be ruled out. Ordinarily the baby of about seven or eight months is fairly well nourished when he is gaining four ounces weekly. If the gain is less than that, beware. Baby is not crying to entertain himself and annoy his mother. He is voicing a protest that demands recognition.

THAT "LIKE THE DICKENS" FEELING
IS LIVER

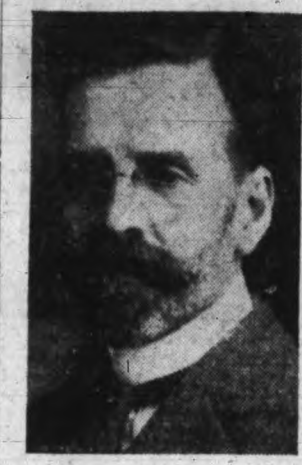

Wake Up Your Liver Bile.
Feel Fit. You Needn't use
Calomel To Do It.

It's your liver, failing to pour out the vital two pounds of bile, daily, into your bowels, that makes you feel so off-color. Lack of bile means poor digestion. Food stays hanging in your bowels and decays. Your system is poisoned. You go through the misery of gas, bloating, pain, heartburn. You have a dark brown abdominal taste in your mouth and bad breath. Your skin's unhealthy and often your head aches. Your whole system seizes out of kilter.

How can you reasonably expect to stir up a condition like this by merely taking salts, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? These only move the bowels, and do not give you enough. You must wake up your liver bile.

Avoid calomel (mercury). Take Carter's Liver Pills. They're purely vegetable, gentle, sure and safe. They'll make you feel a hundred per cent better in a very short time. Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Leave no doubt in your mind. See at all druggists.

CELEBRATE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

MR. AND MRS. W. H. ROWLANDS

WEDDING DAY
IS CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rowlands
Congratulated To-day on Anniversary

To-day, at their home on Phoenix Place, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rowlands are quietly celebrating the forty-fifth anniversary of their wedding day. On July 14, 1888, Mr. and Mrs. Rowlands were married in London, England, and twenty-seven years of their married life have been spent in Victoria, where they have many friends to whom they have endeared themselves and who will extend to them hearty congratulations.

SHIPBOARD ROMANCE
Having inherited a love for the sea from his father, the late Captain John Rowlands, of England, as well as from his grandfather, the late Robert Rowlands, a shipbuilder of Bangor, North Wales, Mr. Rowlands started his career at sea, as well as the romance of his life. As pursuer on a ship making a long sea voyage, he met Miss MacKie, daughter of William MacKie, C.E., of Lancaster, England, who was a passenger on the ship making a tour of the world and who became his bride shortly after the end of the trip.

For some time Mr. and Mrs. Rowlands resided in England and on coming to Canada made their home in Montreal during the time that Mr. Rowlands was in the employ of the Beaver Line as purser on one of the company's ships traveling between Montreal and Liverpool. Later this line was absorbed by the G.P.R. and Mr. Rowlands took office under the management, only retiring two years ago from the position of port steward for G.P.R., which appointment he filled for many years.

To-day the members of their family were unable to be present, but in the near future Mr. and Mrs. Rowlands expect to have a family reunion, when they will be joined by their three sons, William, of San Francisco, and Tom and Jack, of Seattle, with their wives and children.

During her residence in Victoria Mrs. Rowlands has been actively associated with the work of the Connaught Sea-men's Institute, the Y.W.C.A., the Navy League, as well as with many charitable organizations.

JUNIOR MEMBERS WILL BE HOSTS

Junior members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club will act as hosts this evening at a flannel dance to be held at the Club House from 8 until 11 o'clock. This is the first time in nearly a year that the junior members have held a dance and a large attendance of members and friends is expected. A popular four-piece orchestra has been engaged for the occasion and will render the latest tunes for the dancers.

For Baby's Bath

More than that of any other member of the family, baby's tender, delicate skin needs the greatest care and attention. The soft soothing oils in Baby's Own Soap make it especially suitable for babies, and its clinging fragrance reminds one of the roses of France which help to inspire it.

"It's best for you and Baby too"

French President

Paris, July 14.—The International Congress of Nurses went to Brussels to-day, sessions in Paris having concluded, but before leaving Miss Jean Gunn of Toronto, Miss Jean Wilson of Montreal and other executives of the Canadian Nursing Association attending the big gathering expressed to the Canadian Press their keen enjoyment of the meeting. Miss Wilson said the Canadians had enjoyed their visit immensely.

The Canadian delegation headed by Miss Florence Emory of Toronto took a prominent part in the Paris sessions. Outstanding Canadian speakers were Miss Gunn, second vice-president of the International Council, Miss Belle Rogers of Montreal, Miss A. E. Wells of Winnipeg and Miss I. Macintosh of Hamilton.

During their stay here the Canadians were received by President Albert Le Brun of France.

SECRETLY WED
TO WRESTLER

Boston Society Girl Plans
Divorce From Gus Sonnenberg

Los Angeles, July 14.—A former Boston society girl who aroused the jealousy of Gus Sonnenberg by appearing in public with Gary Cooper, the movie star, told a newspaper reporter to-day she is the wife of the heavyweight wrestler.

Judith Allen, twenty-one-year-old featured player (Mari Elliot in real life), disclosed she had been masquerading under the name of Allen and that of Mari Coleman in an effort to keep secret the marriage by agreement with Sonnenberg.

Miss Allen was asked about the truth of the report as she sat on a movie set. "I don't want to hurt Gus," she replied, "but I do not love him, and all I can do, I suppose, is to obtain a divorce."

Uncle Wiggily's Spear-mint

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Where are all the children?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his wife one morning as he finished eating his breakfast in the hollow stump bungalow. "I don't hear them out playing." "They were out in the back yard a little while ago," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy as she picked up the dishes to give them their morning bath. "But I don't see them now." "Goodness! I hope nothing has happened to them," said Uncle Wiggily. "Especially to Baby Buntie. She was ill in the night with stomach ache," he went on, "so I gathered some peppermint down near the brook and made some hot tea." "Baby Buntie is all right," said Nurse Jane. "She ran to the store with the others. That's where all the children are. Uncle Wiggily. At the store." "What store?" Mr. Longears wanted to know.

"Well, I suppose you could call it the gum store, though of course the dear old cat lady who keeps the store sells candy as well as gum," said Mrs. Longears.

"Why do you think the children have gone to the gum store?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Because they all teased me for pennies to get gum," answered his wife. "I gave them the money and away they ran. I'm sure there's all going to buy gum."

"Oh-gum," said Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose. "Don't you want them to have gum?"

"I suppose a little gum to chew will do no harm," answered the rabbit gentleman.

"It will do them good," said Nurse Jane, who loved the little rabbit children very much. In fact Uncle Wiggily used to say that Nurse Jane loved them too much for she was always doing things for them. "When I was a child," went on the muskrat lady housekeeper, "I couldn't run to the store to get gum whenever I wanted it. In those days we got our gum from the spruce trees in the woods."

"Yes, that was good gum," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "Well, times have changed. In our young days, Nurse Jane, there was no gum or airships. They have come with the store gum, I suppose. Well, I'll hop along and perhaps I may meet the children."

This Uncle Wiggily did in a little while. He could smell the little rabbits before he saw them as the summer wind brought to his pink nose the perfume of spearmint.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" greeted Baby Buntie as she saw the rabbit gentleman. "We all bought spearmint gum!" she said.

"Yes, I can tell that!" laughed Mr. Longears.

"It's nice and sweet and spicy," said Jingle.

"Well, don't get the sticky gum in your fur," advised Uncle Wiggily. "Then he honked along with the children, back toward the bungalow. All of a sudden Baby Buntie said:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! All the spearmint flavor has gone out of my gum now. I guess I chewed it out."

"My flavor has gone, too!" said Jingle.

"And mine!" added her twin sister Jane.

Then, one after another, all the rabbit children said their gum didn't taste good any more. And Baby Buntie said: "Could you give us some pennies to buy fresh gum, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Oh, no, I couldn't do that," said the rabbit gentleman with a laugh. "But I will make your gum have a new, fresh flavor."

"How?" asked Baby Buntie.

"Come with me to the brook in my garden," invited Uncle Wiggily. "There spearmint plants grow and also spearmint plants. If you pick some and chew them up with your old gum it will get a new, fresh flavor, just as it had when it came out of the store."

So the little bunnies gathered spearmint leaves to chew with their gum. "It's very nice," said Baby Buntie after a while, "but it isn't sweet like new gum from the store."

"I can easily fix that," said Uncle Wiggily. He hopped up to the bungalow and came back with some little lumps of sugar.

"Chew these with your gum and spearmint leaves," he told his rabbit children. "There is no use spending more money for gum when you can flavor and sweeten your old gum almost as good as new. And with the old gum tasted like new. The bunnies were happy as they danced and hopped in the shade by the brook.

So if the electric light will go out in the yard and chase the pussy cat off the back fence, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the sniffing weasel.

DISPUTE HALTS PLAFOND GAME

Associated Press
Paris, July 12.—A planned tournament between an American team, captained by El Culbertson, and a French team, directed by Pierre Bellanger, wound up six hands short of the scheduled finish yesterday in a dispute caused by an error in dealings in the 101st hand.

The Americans were leading by 142 points at the end of the 102nd hand when the error was discovered. Failing to reach an agreement the match was called off after two hours of debate, leaving several hundred fans held excited past mortems.

A SMILING JULY BRIDE

Mrs. Alfred Joyce, formerly Miss Gwendolyn Mary Carter, who was married at St. John's Church Wednesday evening.

Working Wives

By ANNE GARDNER

June hesitated a minute. "Now you may not like this, Nan. But Jim wants Harry. He doesn't know Jocko very well. Would you mind very much if Harry was the other witness?"

Nan caught her breath.

Nan realized how much she wanted to see Harry again. But she concealed her emotion.

"I wouldn't mind. Why should I? But he may not want to perform with me."

"He'll jump at the chance. Don't worry, darling. Why do you and Harry play this silly game? Why don't you make up and be friends?" June, full of her own happiness, found the courage to do what few dared, make a suggestion to Nan about her personal life.

"You're not supposed to start matchmaking till you've been married at least a week," Nan chided her.

"I'm sorry. It's none of my business of course. Only, I do like you, you know, and I hate to see you unhappy."

"Of course, June, I understand. I didn't mean to be prickly. But you see I'm not doing this. It's Harry. I haven't anything to say about it myself."

"Harry's crazy to make up. He doesn't care any more for Doris Ware than I do. You ought to see how attentive he becomes when he thinks you are noticing him. The rest of the time he patronizes her all over the place."

"Just the same, I can hardly go to him and drag him into my cave by the hair of his head."

"I'll wager anything, though, that he's just waiting for a good opportunity to sputter back into your life again as if nothing had happened. Darling, my wedding will give that opportunity. Don't you see? You'll both have to act nice to each other. Then it will be natural to go right on from there. It will save the faces of both of you."

"June," Nan asked seriously, "When people feel that they have to save their face, do you think they're very much in love?"

"That's a strange question from you, Nan. June accepted naturally the role of a heart expert. "I would say 'no' with two ordinary people. But you and Harry are both so proud. I imagine pride means more to you than to be happy."

"Perhaps Harry is that way, but I'm not."

"Nan Hardy, you're as proud as Lucifer."

"Is that the impression I give people?" Nan was genuinely astonished. "Why, I'd do anything for the man I loved. Go anywhere, endure anything."

"Go down on your knees and beg him to come back to you, I suppose?" "Why, no, no woman could do that," if she had any pride. Then she smiled at her own admission.

"There you are, Nan. You're too clever. Your mind rules more than your heart. Your mind will never let you get into a situation that would hurt your pride. And you can't be happy, Nan dear, until you are willing to let pride go by the board."

Prudently June made "yes" by the flowering of her own romance, spoke as an oracle, and Nan listened with respect.

"Maybe you're right. But still—"

Still all that would not change the fact that whether he loved her or not, whether she loved him or not, whether they were proud or not, Harry would not marry her. Could she swallow her pride enough to go on with him, to accept him as the man she had loved?

Nan patted June's hand. "You're a darling, June Bug. But my silly affair mustn't cloud your wedding. I'll stand up with you. And I don't care who the man is that stands up with Jim. We'll let it go at that."

"Harry will do it all right. And it will let everything. You'll see."

June did not go back to the office.

Harry would wish to see her to-morrow night. And yet he had not said so. Jocko was too sweet to deserve that she should put him off for an anticipated date with Harry.

Again Jocko sensed her hesitation. "Perhaps you'd rather I didn't come." "Oh, no, Jocko. I just didn't know what my plans would be. I'll tell you, call me after dinner. If I'm here, I'll know then whether June will want me or not."

Jocko had not mentioned the other man at the wedding. She wondered if he knew it was to be Harry. If he did, he gave no sign.

Horoscope

SATURDAY, JULY 15, 1933

This should be a fairly fortunate day, but astrologers warn that the early hours are not well directed by the stars.

The planetary government is not favorable to any sort of initiative and seems to encourage completing rather than beginning business of professional matters.

Under this way-men at the head of big enterprises may be subject to anxieties that affect reorganizations or expansions of financial affairs.

While the stars smile on women and encourage them to enjoy summer outings, husbands may be rather slow in agreeing to expensive vacations.

The stars declare that men will retard their own returns to prosperity by retaining many left-over depression fears.

This should be an exceedingly lucky day of the stars for week-end recreations. Romance will await many girls. It is indicated. Hostesses should benefit under this configuration which is believed to stimulate good fellowship and to enable friends to reach closer ties of understanding.

According to the stars July may be a more profitable month for fairs and expositions than August will be.

As the summer draws to a close extremes of weather are to be expected. It is prognosticated. Many warm days are indicated.

The conjunction of Jupiter and Neptune may preface the victory of good government over the power of gangster forces, astrologers forecast.

The uncovering of crime organizations linking France and United States is prognosticated. Reform is to be in the air at this time.

Smuggling is to occupy attention and to cause more or less anxiety on both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts. It is prophesied. Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of quiet success in their business. If they are contented with slow profits, many will enjoy new contacts and friendships.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly able in whatever vocation they choose. Many subjects of this sign are intensely partisan and positive in their opinions.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include Franklin K. Lane, 1884, former Secretary of the Interior, and William Winter, 1858, critic and author.

WALTER MARTIN IS UNDER FIRE

Ottawa Club Protests Playing of Davis Cup Tennis Star in U.S. Tourney

Claim He Should Have Entered Their Event; Want Him Dropped From Team

Ottawa, July 14.—Officials of the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club will attempt to have Walter Martin, Davis Cup player from Regina and Toronto, dropped from the Ontario team to be sent to the Canadian tennis championships in Vancouver.

P. D. Lyons, club president, announced yesterday evening he had made a formal protest to the Canadian and Ontario tennis associations over Martin attending the Spring Lake, N.J., tourney after sending in his entry for the Eastern Canada event here.

Martin and Gilbert Nunn, Toronto, ordinarily would be Ontario's selections for the Canadian tournament. The local club will attempt to have Martin dropped to discipline him. Club officials claim he entered both the local and the New Jersey tournaments and failed even to wire Ottawa he would not be present.

But, pending the return of the Saviour we witness round about us the collapse of everything that for 6,000 years has been the base of human society, such as money, statistics, tariffs, treaties, signatures, solemn engagements; we see everything tricked, soiled, falsified, rotten! Is it possible for any one to still believe that radical political changes, new institutions, new laws, or the suppression of capitalism are sufficient to transform this earth in a kingdom of God? No! It is the human heart that needs renewal that must be regenerated. Not till then can we expect the radical changes so much longed for, such as economic stability and lasting peace to take place.

The French society of international rights published last year some remarkable documents wherein they established the fact that in the course of thirty-four centuries of history there have been only 268 years of peace and even during these short years the nations have had difficulty to maintain it. During these 3,400 years, 8,000 peace treaties were signed, every one of them according to their respective signatories, to last an eternity but which in fact lasted never more than two years on an average.

A humanity which lives in a state of war with its Creator cannot possibly promote the peace of this world. And yet the optimists, whose ranks are gradually thinning, still act as so many false prophets, promising us, these last fifteen years, peace, progress, fraternity, security, abundance, happiness, and endless conferences to renovate humanity! This is nothing short of blasphemy! The reason why the angels on the day of the Lord's ascension promised his return (Acts 1:11) lies in the fact that they knew that man was a failure and would continue to be this until He whose right it is to reign over this world would come to establish a new order of things, not by way of reformation but through regeneration: "Ye must be born again!" Therefore the only move to make now is the move back to the Bible and to God through Christ Jesus the Saviour! L. J. REKMAN.

Daily Health Service

Careless Washing of Restaurant Dishes May Transmit Germs

Use of Boiling Water Is Urged As Health Safeguard; Employees Should Be Checked for Disease

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

In most large cities there are rules established by health departments relative to the proper cleansing of dishes and glasses used at restaurants, soda fountains and other public eating places.

In the case of an epidemic which occurred in Madison, Wis., in 1900, forty-one people developed typhoid from eating food served in dishes which were wiped and stacked by a waiter who had typhoid fever but who was not sick enough to be in bed. Investigations have been made repeatedly of clerks, dish washers, soda fountain waiters and others employed in the handling and serving of food. Other careful study reveals a considerable number of cases of tuberculosis and of venereal disorders capable of transmission indirectly through utensils.

In many cafeterias, restaurants and soda fountains glasses and spoons are merely rinsed, drained and used again. The finger bowls are frequently used over and over without being rinsed, and seldom indeed are dishes boiled or even thoroughly washed in chlorinated water.

In most large establishments dishes are now washed by mechanical dishwashers which guarantee the use of boiling water and strong soap solutions, which destroy the vast majority of germs. In most cases when dishes are washed by hand the water is kept merely lukewarm.

An investigation in Montreal showed that the use of boiling water is probably the most important step in the washing of dishes, and that dishes washed in a properly operated mechanical dishwasher and permitted to dry in the air contained only one-tenth of the number of germs found on dishes washed and dried by hand.

Obviously, the types of disease most frequently transmitted in this way are the cough, cold and respiratory diseases which constitute to-day the chief type of infections attacking human beings. If every person who sees obvious violations of good sanitation in the handling of dishes will make complaint to local health authorities, much of this type of disease transmission will be avoided.

WOLGAST LOSES TO LEW FARBER

Flyweight Champion Drops Decision in Non-title Match at New York

New York, July 14.—Lew Farber, New York, gained a disputed decision over Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia, generally recognized as flyweight champion of the world, in a ten-round non-title match at Fugazy Bowl, Coney Island yesterday evening.

Some ring-side critics thought Wolgast had gained a clear edge, but the referee and one judge voted for Farber, while the second judge's ballot was cast for the Philadelphia.

The fight was slow for six rounds, but both opened up in the last four rounds, with Wolgast outscoring his rival in most of the lively exchanges. He weighed 115 pounds, three more than the class limit.

CATCHY SONGS AT THE EMPIRE

"Lucky Girl" Opening Here To-day Stars Molly Lamont and Gene Gerrard

A delightfully fresh and entertaining picture is to be found at the Empire Theatre. The film, an adaptation of the musical comedy by Reginald Berkeley, "Mr. Abdulla," is called "Lucky Girl" and it is appealing to the ears as well as the eyes. It tells a story of a mythical kingdom, Karaslavia, whose new king, the young Stephan is troubled by a overwhelming lack of cash. The king and his aide travel to England and are mistaken for jewel thieves. Gene Gerrard, star of "Lucky Girl," and Molly Lamont his leading lady, make a pleasing and talented pair. The songs are very catchy and the direction by Eugene O'Sullivan is good.

"Good Companions" Opening To-morrow

Remarkable scenes were witnessed at the Shepherd's Bush Studios during the production of "The Good Companions," coming Saturday to the Dominion Theatre. On the set, the theatre at Galford, five hundred extras, including firemen, policemen, and ambulance men formed the audience. An organized gang of roughs had been by a rival management to break up the show. Susie Dean (Jessie Matthews) was in the middle of a song, when, at a given signal, the roughs began to whistle and shout, and in a few minutes the theatre was in an uproar. All kinds of missiles were thrown at the stage. Panic-stricken members of the audience fled for their lives, while a freight started. Police and firemen were called in, and the hoses were turned on the struggling mass of humanity. Victor Saville, at the first shooting obtained all he required.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Some years ago the scapegrace son of a multi-millionaire became involved in a sordid love murder. The shock of this contributed greatly to his father's death.

A similar incident, with its tragedy and pathos, has been incorporated into RKO-Radio Pictures' epic film, "Sweepings," now screening at the Capitol Theatre. Lionel Barrymore, enacts the father, and William Gargan the disolute son. The production, directed by John Cromwell, while through several decades and pictures the rise of a great monument of commerce out of Chicago's great fire and the crisis it meets when the time comes for its heirs to show their mettle.

DOMINION THEATRE

Every member of the cast of "Reunion in Vienna," being shown at the Dominion Theatre, came to motion pictures from the stage. John Barrymore's stage career is well known, and Diana Wynyard enjoyed wide success here and abroad before entering films in "Rasputin and the Empress." Henry Travers, Eduardo Cinnelli, Bela Loblov and Morris Nussbaum were in the original New York stage offering of the Robert E. Sherwood play in which they make their film bow. Other members of the cast who are graduates of the theatre are Frank Morgan, May Robson and Una Merkel.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

"I have been punched at by more famous personalities than any man in the world." That's the odd but proud boast of Vince Barnett, cast as a comic bartender in Paramount's "Sunset Pass," written by Zane Grey, which is being shown at the Columbia Theatre. Barnett for a time was a professional "ribber," paid to arouse the ire of famous persons. He even tempted the Prince of Wales to venture a sock. But Barnett always dodged. In "Sunset Pass," written by Zane Grey, which arrives next is being shown at the Columbia Theatre. Barnett for a time was a professional "ribber," paid to arouse the ire of famous persons. He even tempted the Prince of Wales to venture a sock. In "Sunset Pass" he forgot to duck in a saloon brawl and took the count.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

One of Joan Blondell's recent gifts to her cameraman husband, George Barnes, was a set of sixty-two-power binoculars.

"We used to see the games in the Coliseum from our place on Lookout Mountain," she says. "Now I expect we'll see the Notre Dame game clear back in South Bend at 10:30 a.m."

Mrs. Blondell is currently playing the lead in "Broadway Bad" for Fox Films at the Playhouse Theatre.

First Named Plays Sensationally To Defeat Dr. Baker

California Has Another Tennis Champion in Gene Mako

Ready to Take Place Alongside Vines, Doeg and Johnston

New Six-team Hockey League Proposed for West Next Winter

CALIFORNIA has another tennis champion in the making. The royal line of R. Lindley Murray, Billy Johnston, Johnny Doeg and Ellsworth Vines, all national champions, awaits a new addition. Gene Mako, a seventeen-year-old giant who was born in Budapest, Hungary, is the new kid on the block. As a freshman at the University of Southern California this year, he was elected captain of the tennis squad after winning the southern California championship from Keith Gledhill, former United States intercollegiate champion and internationalist. Last week Mako gave signs he is nearing the peak by reaching the finals of the United States clay court championships only to be beaten by Frankie Parker, brilliant youngster from Milwaukee.

Two years ago, as a fifteen-year-old junior at Glendale High School, Mako gained recognition at Culver, Ind., in the United States boys' championships. In a bitterly fought struggle he lost the national championship to Frankie Parker in the final round, 6-6, 7-5. Then Gene gained his revenge by pairing up with Ned Russell to beat Parker and Jack McLean for the doubles crown, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. Since that time Parker and Mako have been bitter rivals on the courts, with the honors now in possession of Parker, owing to his victory in the clay court finals.

In his two-year stay at Glendale, he was as invincible as Frank Wykoff was on the track at the same school. He won the southern California and California intercollegiate titles in 1931 and repeated in 1932. Mako has the reputation of being the cockiest and most glib player the west has seen in years. His tongue has been known to get him into a few scrapes. He never passes an opportunity to "rib" a rival, while he never seems to get rattled. If he thinks the referee has made a mistake, he is not hesitating to call him a robber. If an opponent plays foolishly, Gene tells him so. Mako's service is said to be matched only by Vines'. California critics are of the opinion Mako is more advanced for his age than any tennis star ever developed in the west.

A six team professional hockey league, with Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver, Tacoma, Seattle and Portland entered, is a possibility for next winter, according to information given out by Duke Keats at Edmonton. Nothing definite, as yet, has been done. The Western-Canada Professional Hockey League, which met with considerable success last year, may not be disbanded. However, a new league with Vancouver, Tacoma, Seattle and Portland has already been organized and, according to Dr. D. M. Letch, Portland, president of the hockey club organization in that city, no plans to be done is arranged a schedule.

Keats has been invited to enter the Edmonton Ekimoks, champions of the W.C.H.L. in the new league. The same proposition has also been out to Lloyd Turner of the Calgary Tigers. Last year Saskatoon finishing in fourth place, was given terrible support in its home games. Kenney McKenzie, who opened the season with a team in Regina, was forced to leave that city and migrate with all his players to Vancouver, and there, it is reliably reported, the McKenzie outfit was able to break a little better than even. Plenty of hockey players would be available for the proposed new league. Many of the hockey magnates in the eastern leagues were unable to meet salary demands last year and, as a result, their hockey talent was not greatly pleased with the treatment received.

Rowing Body Makes Apology to Cleland

Montreal, July 14.—The Amateur Oarsmen Association of Canada has apologized to W. B. Cleland, Hamilton, for associating his name with a resolution passed by the association at Ottawa, Saturday, requesting Bobby Pearce to declare his intentions about turning professional before his entry could be accepted for the Henley Regatta, it was announced yesterday by President J. Y. Owen, Montreal.

Art Chanman Gets Watch and Wallet

Art Chanman, member of the Tillamook nine in the Senior Baseball League, who lost his watch and wallet after he was hurt in an accident at the park last Monday night, has recovered the lost articles, he announced yesterday evening. The watch and wallet were found by the batsman's equipment in the park.

Toronto, July 14.—Earl McCready, a professional cyclist, yesterday evening to defeat Sander Sabo, Hungarian, in the main bout of a wrestling card here. Black Lone Remaining Canadian Entry in National Play at Vancouver

Dolp Brilliant To Beat Cameron

"Scotty" Campbell Eliminates Cecil Coville; Givan Beats Don Gowan

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 14.—On the broad shoulders of Vancouver's favorite golfing son rests the hope of this vast Dominion, as Kenny Black remains the sole surviving wearer of the Maple Leaf in the annual race for Canada's amateur crown. The twenty-year-old British Columbia champion meets a Washington University freshman, Harry Givan, Seattle, in one semi-final bracket here to-day; while the highly-rated Frank Dolp, Portland, engages another Seattle ace, "Scotty" Campbell, in a match that holds promise of inspiring play.

For three consecutive days of grueling match play, the youthful Black hugged par over his home course to reach the fourth of the Dominion's premier golf classic. Yesterday he was sensational at times as he defeated the well-known Portland star, Dr. Cliff Baker, by 3 and 3. Son of David Black, four times winner of the Canadian open title and professional at this club, Kenny has displayed an intimate and valuable knowledge of the championship course. He is favored to defeat Givan to-day and gain the final DEFEATED GOWAN.

The young Seattle freshman, star basketball and baseball player, advanced yesterday at the expense of Don Gowan, Vancouver, who dethroned the defending champion, Gordon Taylor, Montreal, in the second round. Givan came from behind to defeat the Vancouver man on the home hole with a half. Feature of the quarter-finals, however, was the match between Dolp and the great eastern star, Jack Cameron, Toronto, who was defeated by the sharpshooting American. Dolp ended the match on the thirty-second green, 5 and 4, despite the courageous efforts of the desperate Toronto ace.

CAMPBELL STEADY Campbell, recent winner of the Pacific Northwest title at Victoria, advanced with a 3 and 2 triumph over the Vancouver veteran, Cecil Coville, who had been sensation in previous rounds with victories over Dr. O. P. Willing, former United States Walker Cup star, and the Toronto linksman, Fred McLeod.

Black played almost perfect golf for the fifth consecutive day of national competition, including the inter-provincial matches of Saturday, when he led the entire field. For the first time in the morning round he was even par and he was sensational in the home hole as he retrieved four 4's and four 3's to stave off the desperate efforts of Dr. Baker. His only trouble came on the eleventh when he put two out of bounds from the tee and conceded the hole. He was 3 up at lunch.

INCREASED LEAD In the deciding round, Black started auspiciously with a birdie 4 when he approached dead to increase his lead to four holes on the twentieth. Dr. Baker made a wonderful fifteen-foot putt, cutting his ball past a half-stymie with Black's ball on the edge of the cup, and halved the hole. The next was halved 3 and 3, but Black made it 3 up on the second with a wonderful second from the trees to the far side of the green and a dead chip to (Turn to Page 13, Col. 5)

WESTERN NET PLAYERS WIN

Carolyn Babcock and Alice Marble Advance in Brookline Tennis Tourney

Brookline, Mass., July 14.—The women's invitation competition, a recent addition to Brookline's historic bowl week, held the interest of the gallery at Longwood yesterday, while the men were picking up the loose ends of their doubles programme on far-flung courts.

The quarter-finals women's singles matches sparked with action. Baroness Maud Levi, New York, provided something of an upset when she eliminated Katherine Winthrop, Hamilton, 6-4, 6-1.

Carolyn Babcock, Los Angeles, topped, moved into the semi-finals against the baroness by defeating Dorance Chase, Boston, 1-6, 6-0, 6-3. Alice Marble, San Francisco, upset Eunice Dean, Texas, 6-2, 6-3, and Sarah Paley, Brookline, conquered the second seeded Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., 7-5, 6-7, 6-3, to make both of to-day's semi-final matches east-west affairs.

The top seeded Joe Coughlin, San Francisco, and Henry Culler, Los Angeles, qualified for the semi-finals by upsetting Roy Palmer and Tom Flynn, New York, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

TOD MORGAN IN KNOCKOUT WIN

Former Junior Lightweight Champ Puts Dardeen Away in Sixth Round

Seattle, July 14.—Tod Morgan, 140, former world junior lightweight champion, knocked out Sailor Lee Dardeen, 137, Bremerton, in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round bout at the White Centre arena yesterday evening. He scored two previous knockdowns, the best saving Dardeen in the first and second rounds.

Buddy Bittori, Concrete lightweight, won a technical knockout over Johnny Lorrain, Seattle, in the fifth of an eight-rounder, when Lorrain was unable to continue.

Edgie Santry, Cashmere welterweight, knocked out Alf Wilson, New York, conceding in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round bout. That evening, in the final round of a four-round preliminary.

Jack Forsgren Is Beaten By Sheung

Vancouver, July 14.—In the main event of yesterday evening's wrestling card here, Jack Forsgren, Vancouver, 216, lost to Wong Dock Sheung, China, 212. Forsgren took the first fall in the fifth round with a Boston crab. Sheung, in the sixth round, the Chinese evened up with an airplan spin and won the match with a body press in the seventh.

In the semi-final match Oki Shikina, Japan, 214, got the only fall from Everett Kibbons, Oklahoma, 215, in the third round with a series of flying mares and a body press.

Announcer Frederick "Whattaman" Tubman picked just the psychological moment to take up the collection. The score was tied at 5 to 5 in the fifth and it looked like a ball game. But after the spectators had shelled out $23 for the Red Cross Workshop the newspapers appeared to forget what they were on the diamond NEWSIES UP IN AIR.

Times Nine Falls Before Gray Line

Newspaper Boys Suffer 21 to 7 Trouncing at Hands of Rebel Mowat and Co.

After Holding Grays For Four Innings Newsies Blow Up Higher Than a Kite

Rebel Mowat and Co. admitted The Times trotted out a good baseball team yesterday evening at Beacon Hill Park. They said so about the fourth inning when the classic encounter developed into a hip-and-tuck struggle, but after that the hand played "Annie Laurie."

The newsies blew up from home plate to center field and by the time the frantic scorekeeper finished his business at the ninth he announced the count as 21 to 7.

However, the score did not worry the crowd of 2,500 which turned out for the attraction. The spectators were much more interested in the antics of Manager Mowat and his Gray Liners.

LOTS OF COMEDY Rebel and his end man, Bobby Ross, arrived aboard a tandem bicycle, doled up in frock coats, whiskers, top hats and similar accessories. Slowly they wheeled around the diamond and doled their hats to the umpire, The Times manager, and the crowd.

Bill Cox strolled onto the ground looking like Groucho Marx in horsetails. He had a tail on his coat as well—a red tail. And when Percy Fitzsimmons appeared, late as usual, with bowler hat, tuxedo, and the trimmings, the crowd howled. Rebel took off his coat to pitch. He took off his vest. He took off his hat. He put his hat on again. He took it off. And he pitched. He also talked, and talked fast. He talked the balls right round the bat. That explains about half of the Gray Line victory.

Announcer Frederick "Whattaman" Tubman picked just the psychological moment to take up the collection. The score was tied at 5 to 5 in the fifth and it looked like a ball game. But after the spectators had shelled out $23 for the Red Cross Workshop the newspapers appeared to forget what they were on the diamond NEWSIES UP IN AIR.

Hughes And Perry Beat Australians In Doubles Battle

Give Britain Lead in Davis Cup Tennis By Victory Over Quist and Turnbull

One Win in Two Singles Matches To-morrow Will Put British in Interzone Final

Wimbledon, Eng., July 14.—Great Britain's doubles team of George Patrick Hughes and Fred Perry defeated the Australians, Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull, 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, to-day to give Great Britain a lead of two matches to one in the European zone Davis Cup finals.

The victory gave Great Britain a commanding lead in the battle for the right to face the United States in the interzone finals at Auteuil next week-end.

The first pair of singles matches were divided yesterday as Jack Crawford, Australia's new Wimbledon singles king, defeated Bunny Austin and Fred Perry, England's top-ranked player, beat young Vivian McGrath.

With the final pair of singles scheduled for to-morrow, Crawford will have to beat Perry and McGrath must defeat Austin if Australia is to gain the inter-zone final.

HUGHES FAVORED Results of the doubles all but clinched the outcome of the zone final in the minds of critics. It was the general belief Crawford will win his second singles victory to-morrow when he faces Perry, but Austin gave a considerable margin over McGrath.

Great Britain last reached the inter-zone finals in 1931, beat the United States there, and went on to challenge France unsuccessfully for the historic trophy.

The veteran British team that failed to get anywhere in the Wimbledon doubles while Quist and Turnbull eliminated the American champions, Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill played splendidly paced tennis to-day.

With a 2 to 1 advantage hanging on either side on the outcome of the crucial doubles encounter, the young Australians forced the first set to 6-4 before losing it.

Quist and Perry, serving for their respective sides, exchanged the first two games in a fierce, scrappy tennis duel, and then were mounted to two all, then three all on service.

PROLONGED BATTLE The powerful Turnbull won the seventh game for Australia at love on his own service, but Hughes again leveled the score at 4-4 in games after a prolonged duce battle.

The score went to five-all before the Britons broke through, took the lead, and then Hughes held his own service despite two double faults, 7-5.

Quist failed to hold his service at the start of the second set and Perry, as an Englishman, numbered one, started a streak of brilliant tennis to carry the set for Great Britain.

The British team never relinquished the lead, running from 3-1 in games to 4-2, then 5-3, before Quist held them off momentarily by winning the ninth game on his service. The British veterans quickly ran out the set, 6-4.

TURNBULL PLAYS WELL Turnbull in the third set matched Perry's brilliant display. The big Australian began with a love victory on his own service, and as Hughes started making errors the Australians quickly ran the game count to 3-0.

Perry stopped the British rout with a love game on his service, but Quist rallied to Turnbull's aid and the Australians sent the count to 4-1. Hughes served the count to 4-1, but Perry stepped in and served a love game, and Great Britain was 2-0.

Quist, the young Australian, roused himself and with Turnbull playing an airtight game at the net, the Angles took the fourth game, but Hughes and Perry teamed in the fifth. From that point on, with Hughes service, the Englishmen raced through the last game to win the final set, 6-3.

Cincinnati, July 14.—John Pius Quinn, veteran spitball pitcher, is foot-loose again.

The dean of the major league hurlers to-day cast his eye about for another big-time berth. He was given his unconditional release yesterday by the Cincinnati Reds.

It is believed fourteen-out-of-the-seventeen first-class captains have signified their assent to a gentlemen's agreement whereby the leg-flick will not be used in the interests of the game.

It is assumed Nottinghamshire, Surrey and Northamptonshire captains have declined to join such a pact. D. R. Jardine, the English captain in Australia, Captains Surrey, Nottinghamshire and Harold Larwood's own team, and Jupp, the great test bowler, is a member of the Northants eleven.

Loaningdale Is Stake Winner

Sandown, England, July 14.—Colonel G. Wilson's Loaningdale, by Colorado out of Perfection, to-day won the famous Eclipse Stakes valued at £11,000 with King George and Queen Mary watching the mile and a quarter race from the royal box.

Aga Khan's Firdausi was second two lengths behind the winner, and Colonel G. Loder's Foxbridge Third three lengths farther back. A field of ten ran.

Loaningdale was held at 9 to 2. Firdausi 11 to 10, and Foxbridge 10 to 1.

COUNTY CRICKET CAPTAINS OPPOSE "BODYLINE" BOWLING

Fourteen Out of Seventeen Skippers in English League Are Reported to Be Against Bowling Theory of Harold Larwood; May Make Gentleman's Agreement

London, July 14.—Captains of the first-class county cricket teams are reported determined to prevent any "bodyline" bowling controversy creeping into county cricket, it was understood to-day. Following the long and heated arguments that arose from Australian resentment of Harold Larwood's bowling theory during the test tour in Australia, it is understood the English county captains have decided to act for themselves in the interests of the game.

It is believed fourteen-out-of-the-seventeen first-class captains have signified their assent to a gentlemen's agreement whereby the leg-flick will not be used in the interests of the game.

It is assumed Nottinghamshire, Surrey and Northamptonshire captains have declined to join such a pact. D. R. Jardine, the English captain in Australia, Captains Surrey, Nottinghamshire and Harold Larwood's own team, and Jupp, the great test bowler, is a member of the Northants eleven.

HORSE RETURNS $190.90 FOR $2

Stanstill Springs Upset at Brighouse: Peace Times
Wins Feature Event

Vancouver, July 14.—Leading from wire to wire, Peace Times, from the Kild stable, annexed the feature event of yesterday's racing card when she just lacked to hold off Plenty Gold by a head. Little Broom, after a slow start, was third.

Stanstill did everything but run to his name in the third. He stepped out in front early and came home in front of the field to give racegoers one of the biggest surprises of the season, paying $190.90 for a $2 mutuel on the nose.

Third and stiffest time of the meet, $50, was assessed against Jockey Chidsey in the third when he shut off Alston Whittier in the stretch.

KEENER PLAY IN TOURNEY

Yesterday's Winners at Hillcrest Tennis Club Extended in Taking Matches

Competition in the annual tennis tournament at the Hillcrest Club grew keener yesterday and all winners of the day were extended to gain their victories. The outstanding match was the men's doubles between Cliff Margison and Bill Erickson and Simpson and Van Froome. The former lost the first set, 3-6, and came back in the second set, 6-3. The third set was continued until the twenty-second game, when Margison and Erickson won 12-10. Miss Wright and Herb Davie also experienced difficulty in eliminating Butler and V. Hicks, 2-6, 6-3 and 9-7.

MEN'S DOUBLES

Margison and Erickson defeated Simpson and Van Froome, 3-6, 6-3, 12-10.

A. Wright and Davey defeated Butler and V. Hicks, 2-6, 6-3, 9-7.

Miss Parkinson and Miss E. Warburton defeated Miss Hodgson and Miss Lockley, 6-8, 6-0, 6-2.

BIG FIELD FOR RACE CLASSIC

Fifteen Expected to Face Barrier in $35,000 Arlington Event To-morrow

Chicago, July 13.—A field of fifteen crack three-year-olds appeared assured to-day for the fifth running of the Arlington Classic, with its rich prize of $35,000 added, over the mile and a quarter route, at Arlington Park.

As to-morrow's race shapes up, it is regarded as the most open of any important stake held in American racing.

Mr. Khayyam and Gold Basis are regarded as likely choices, but a new sensation has popped up to scramble handicap figures.

This startling thoroughbred is Sargada, owned by F. A. Griffith, New York. Sargada, after winning a mile race Thursday in 1:37 was sent out to work an extra furlong after passing the finishing line and clipped off 1:40 4-5, only two-fifths of a second short of Ben's record for that distance at Arlington.

"Jack" Whitcroft Is Dead at Vancouver

Vancouver, July 14.—William John Whitcroft, twenty-one, son of the late Fred J. Whitcroft, one of Vancouver's most popular sportsmen, is dead at work.

His residence, 4000-10, Avenue Point Grey, after a brief illness.

Like his father, "Jack" Whitcroft was associated with a number of sports, particularly baseball, hockey and swimming.

A native of Edmonton, he came to Vancouver about sixteen years ago.

FINE PITCHER

Once called "Wild Bill" he is now one of the greatest left-handers in major baseball.

Hallahan has been pitching bang-up ball this season for the St. Louis Cardinals.

In six years in the National League Hallahan has struck out 524 batters.

FIRST NAMED PLAYS SENSATIONALLY TO DEFEAT DR. BAKER

within a foot of the cup. Baker was on in 2, but three putted.

Dr. Baker put two out of bounds on the twenty-third, and conceded the hole, and Black went seven up on the next, when the Portland entrant again three-putted. Black was in two traps on the twenty-fourth, but pitched out of the second to the green, and sank his put to halve the hole when Baker missed a short putt. The next hole was halved in par four's. Baker cut the lead to six before the turn, when the Vancouver youngster three-putted the twenty-seventh green.

BIRDIE ENDS MATCH

Baker further cut the lead as the rivals started into the home stretch, when Black took a four, one over par. The Canadian pitched his third shot dead on the long twenty-ninth, however, and won with a birdie. Black found trouble on the next, and lost the hole to Baker's par four. Ken sliced his tee shot, played through the trees, short and two-putted. Baker laid his approach beside the pin to win the 379-yard thirtieth with a birdie three, and the next was halved, but Black sank a five-foot putt for a birdie on the thirty-first, and ended the match.

The par golf of Campbell proved too much for Coville.

The Vancouver veteran found plenty of difficulty at the start of the second nine, going five down with sixes at the nineteenth and twentieth. He sank a five-footer on the short twenty-first, however, and pitched dead on the twenty-second to obtain a half, in birdie four.

Campbell went five up on the twenty-third, when Coville was weak with a shot from the trap, but the Vancouver man sank a six-foot putt on the next to win with a birdie three. They halved the next three holes. Despite his three birdies, Coville was out in 39, two over par.

Campbell went five up at the twenty-fourth, when his opponent three-putted, and they halved the hole. The next was also halved, but Campbell drove the ball into the thirty-fifth, finally conceding the hole, and Coville took his second straight with a birdie three on the next, sinking a twelve-footer. The lead was too much for him to overcome, however, and the next two holes were halved, the match ending on the thirty-fourth green.

CAMERON RALLIES

After being four down at lunch time to Dolp, Cameron coolly and deliberately shot about his opponent's best of cutting the lead held by the tall, slender American. On the nineteenth, he drove off the fairway to the left and was on the second fairway with his second. He pitched over the green and past a trap with his third, but chipped close to the pin and sank a three-footer to win the hole with a par 5. Dolp hooked his drive, but it topped his second and found a bunker with his third. His chip shot was short and he took two putts.

The twentieth was halved in fours when Dolp hooked his drive and played a full mashie forty yards short of the green, but pitched within twelve inches of the cup to match Cameron's steady effort. Dolp was three feet from the pin on the 133-yard twenty-first and Cameron was forced to sink a twenty-footer to halve the hole with a birdie 2. Cameron hooked his next drive into the trees and played out left-handed. He was in the green in 3 and down in par 5 to earn a half, when Dolp missed a three-foot putt. The twenty-third was halved in par 5, but Dolp again assumed a four-hole lead when the Easterner encountered all kinds of trouble on the next hole to lose to Dolp's par 4. He sliced his drive and his second shot cleared a bunker, but rolled back in. He chipped out but three-putted.

GETS OUT OF TROUBLE

Dolp's faculty for getting out of trouble stood him in good stead on the twenty-fifth, when Cameron played perfectly over the 209-yard hole to go down in 4. The Portland ace found a trap with his drive and putted his iron shot to the left of the green. He coolly pitched within two feet of the pin, however, and sank the putt. They both pitched dead to the pin with their third shots on the twenty-sixth to halve the hole. Cameron cut the lead to three with a par 4 on the twenty-seventh as Dolp sliced his drive and caught a trap with his second.

They halved the twenty-eighth in par 2, but Dolp carded a birdie 4 on the 316-yard hole, following with a long drive and a well-played number-four shot to the green. Cameron took a 5. The Easterner returned a birdie on the 270-yard thirtieth hole when he chipped from the bunker dead to the pin, while Dolp was down in par. The American won the next two holes, however, to take the match. On the thirty-first he drove 240 yards and used a No. 7 iron to drop five feet from the pin, sinking his putt. On the next he laid Cameron a half stroke, which the Toronto man could not hole and won with a par 4.

SCORELESS DRAW

Winnipeg, July 14.—Winnipeg Irish and Port Williams Legion battled to a scoreless draw here yesterday evening in the first game of a two-out-of-three series in the interprovincial playdowns for the soccer championship of Canada.

VERGEZ'S HOMER WINS FOR GIANTS

Chicago Cubs Remain Three Games Behind By Third Victory
Over Brooklyn

Washington Senators, despite the remarkable record they made in a couple of weeks on the road, have found it an increasingly difficult task to shake off the New York Yankees since the clubs returned to the familiar home grounds.

The Yanks have been winning games in their best style since they got back to the Bronx, while the Senators have slipped a couple of times. To-day only one game separated the two rivals in the race for the American League lead.

By running roughshod over the last-place St. Louis Browns for a 12-to-0 victory, the Yanks sliced the Senators' lead to one game yesterday as the Chicago White Sox slammed out a 9-to-6 decision over Washington.

Vernon "Lefty" Gomez was the big factor in the Yankee victory. He allowed only five hits and did not permit a runner to reach third.

TWENTY-HIT ATTACK

Senators kept pace with Chicago for seven innings, but the Hose kept their twenty-hit attack going and scored three more runs to give Washington its third defeat in four days.

Cleveland Indians edged out Philadelphia Athletics 6 to 5 on O'Dell Hale crashed a home run with one on in the eighth. Detroit turned back Boston Red Sox 3 to 2 when Fred Greening got the better of Henry Johnson.

St. Louis Cardinals coasted further down in the National League standing when Carl Hubbell's southpaw flinging won the Braves 4 to 3 over the Pirates.

Chicago Cubs held their place three games behind the Giants and one ahead of Pittsburgh by knocking off Brooklyn Dodgers for the third time, 4 to 1. Good pitching by Lon Warneke helped.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Philadelphia, July 14.—Johnny Vergez banged the first homer the Giants have made in ten games of their current road trip in the ninth inning yesterday and gave the league-leaders a 3 to 2 victory over the Cardinals before 14,000 fans.

With "Blondy" Ryan back at shortstop with his spiked leg protected by a special fibre guard, the Giants played errorless ball for the second successive day and the second time in their tour.

R. H. E.
St. Louis 14 1 0
Batteries: Hubbell and Mancuso; Carleton and Wilson.

Chicago, July 14.—The second-place Cubs gave Lon Warneke sparkling support yesterday and the combination served to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4 to 1, for Chicago's eighth victory in a row.

In winning his season's eleventh triumph, Warneke yielded eight hits, including three doubles and three walks. But his strength in the pinches and four rapid double plays held the Dodgers to one unearned run.

R. H. E.
Brooklyn 1 1 0
Chicago 4 1 1
Batteries: Beck and Lopez; Warneke and Hartnett.

Cincinnati, July 14.—The Reds and Phillies swapped places again yesterday; Cincinnati dropped back into the National League cellar as Philadelphia won, 4 to 3.

Phillie singled in the second inning with the bases filled to score two men, and Davis added the winning runs for the visitors with a double in the third. Johnnie Jackson and the combination mounded for the Phillies, but was replaced by Collins after the fifth when Hefey and Moore singled and Bottomley doubled to drive in two runs.

R. H. E.
Philadelphia 4 9 2
Cincinnati 3 11 2
Batteries: Jackson, Collins and Davis; Derringer, Stout, Smith, Kolp and Manion.

Pittsburgh, July 14.—Five Pirates hits combined with two Boston errors in an eight-inning outbreak yesterday produced five runs, breaking a 3 to 3 tie and giving Pittsburgh an 8 to 3 victory over the Braves. The victory gives the Pirates a two-to-one edge on the series.

R. H. E.
Boston 3 9 1
Pittsburgh 8 13 1
Batteries: Cantwell, Starr and Hogan; Smith and Grace.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York, July 14.—The Yankees backed up "Lefty" Gomez's five-hit pitching yesterday by bunting nine hits, with as many bases on balls off Rube Haddock and Hank McDonald, to defeat St. Louis Browns, 12 to 0. 11 new fans watched a ninth-inning victory and their third over the Browns.

R. H. E.
St. Louis 0 5 1
New York 12 9 0
Batteries: McDonald, Haddock and Shea; Ruel; Gomez and Dickey.

Washington, July 14.—Their league lead shrinking almost as fast as it swelled, Washington Senators yesterday were handed a 9 to 6 beating by Chicago White Sox which sliced their advantage over the world champion Yankees to a single game.

Entering the present week with a pennant bee buzzing loud in the Washington camp after a victorious western swing, the Senators have seen a four and a half game lead whittled down by

SOFTBALL

In the play-off series in the senior division of the City Softball League McDonald's Service defeated the Beavers, 6 to 5 at the Central Park yesterday evening. The second game of the best two out of three series will be played Monday evening on the same grounds.

The Workers' Sports Association and Goodwin's Grocery will replay their championship tussle in the Junior Softball League to-morrow evening, at Victoria West Park, at 6:30 o'clock. W.S.A. won the fixture earlier in the week by a 13 to 12 score, but Goodwin's won their protest, and the fixture was ordered replayed by the executive. Secretary Clarke announced that entries for the knockout competition must be in his hands as soon as possible, as officials want to make the draw for the opening rounds.

Most Men Are Niggardly About Buying Furniture For Their Wives—They Do Not Know That In Time Each Piece Ceases to Be a Stick of Furniture and Becomes a Memory of the Joys, Sorrows of Her Life

THERE are few subjects in the world over which there are so many domestic rows as there are over furniture. In almost every household the husband and wife metaphorically throw plates at each other and break chairs over each other's head, and even so small a matter as a teaspoon has been known to precipitate a forty years' civil war between a couple, with quarter neither given nor asked.

Of course, there are exceptions to all rules. There are a few men who are born antiquarians, and how and then a lucky woman gets a husband who takes a real honest interest in mahogany and draperies, but for the most part, the husband of Adam or Heppelwhite or even modernistic is a fighting word in the family circle, and just to mention an oriental rug is like waving a red flag at a mad bull.

To a man a chair is something to sit in and a table is something to eat on, and the older and the more worn and the more comfortable, the better. He does not see any sense in changing nor why his wife is always wanting to substitute something new.

Many men who are generous about everything else are niggardly about furniture. They are perfectly willing to buy their wives new cars with all the latest gadgets, but when it comes to buying period furniture they snap shut the Yale locks on their pocketbooks.

They do not know that to a woman a beautiful piece of furniture is a never-ending joy that gives her a thrill every time she looks at it, and that in time her chairs and tables cease to be chairs and tables and become memories.

Love and marriage, birth and death, joy and sorrow, they have all centered around her furniture. This little rocker is not only a chair. It is where she sat when she held her first baby in her arms and rocked it to sleep. This is not just a table. It is the place around which gathered for laughter and feasting the boys and girls who have scattered and gone out into the world. This is not just a bed. It is the altar on which she laid her dead and which is sanctified by her tears.

This is what a woman's furniture means to her and why women are so often slaves to their "things." Their things are part of their lives. They are old friends who speak to them a thousand tongues of the adventures they have lived through together.

I often think that we do not sufficiently realize the influence that inanimate things have upon us. Dickens perceived this, and you remember that in one of his stories he had two light-minded young men set up a kitchen in which nothing was ever cooked just for the restraining moral effect it would have upon their characters. These youths were wise in their day and generation, for while the sight of a cocktail shaker incites to levity and frivolity, pots and pans and baking dishes are settlers-down that remind one of the sober responsibilities of life.

Who can doubt that it was not merely a coincidence but cause and effect that made the early American furniture and the early American character virtually duplicates of each other—solid, upright, honest, stiff, angular and unyielding. Any one who had to sleep in a Colonial bed and eat off a Colonial table and sit in a straight Colonial chair, was bound to develop a backbone and unyielding principles.

Equally obvious is it that divorce and the two-by-four flat walk hand in hand. Wrecking a home that you have built as a love nest and whose every stick and stone you have paid for by sacrifices is a heart-breaking thing, but it is fatally easy to put on your hat and walk out of a cubicle that belongs to somebody else and whose very furniture is hired, and where you have only to give a week's notice and quit.

You cannot strike roots down into the ground if you never live in a place long enough even to remember its address without thinking. You cannot cherish your landlady's belongings, or feel any affection for wallpaper you did not pick out yourself. And so the young couple who have no fixed abiding place, nothing that belongs to themselves, never get the sense of building up an enduring home, and only too often they come to swapping husbands and wives as casually as they do kitchenette apartments.

Somehow furniture anchors them. Many a young bride, prieved with discovering that husband was a mere man and not the little tin god she had supposed him to be, and smarting under his criticism of cooking, has been restrained from going back to mother by the thought of parting with her new empire sofa and her embroidered dollies.

Statistics show that there has been a great falling-off in marriages and an enormous increase in old maid since the old-fashioned parlor went out and the new-fashioned whole-family living-room came in. The old horsehair sofa was a great matchmaker, which is something that parents with marriageable daughters would do well to bear in mind. You have to furnish budding romance a proper background if you want it to flower. Into a brand new house, and how many matches the old square place made when youths and maidens gathered about it to sing together. "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" we shall never know.

For these, and a thousand other reasons, material and spiritual, furniture plays its important part in our lives, and it is a pity that men do not realize this often, and encourage their wives to beautify their homes instead of raising Cain when wife so much as suggests buying a new pair of curtains.

Adventure of the Northland

BACK ON THE SHIP

The native language of Iceland is similar to that of Denmark, but many persons on the island have learned English through study in school or by travel abroad.

"This will give you an idea of the foot formation," said Dr. Barstow.

By good fortune, the policeman, dressed by Roberts, knew how to speak English very well.

"What ship do you mean?" he inquired.

"The Amundsen," said the girl. "I came here to-day with my brother and Dr. Barstow and Mr. Weston and many scientists."

The policeman thought for a moment, then said, "Yes, I think I can help you. Your ship must be the one that sailed into the harbor about an hour ago. I didn't make out the name, but I saw it in the distance. I'll take you to it."

The kindly policeman escorted the little girl toward the docks, and would have taken her clear to the vessel if Mr. Weston had not come running up to them.

"Well, well! So here you are!" he exclaimed, placing his hand on Roberts's shoulder. "I've been looking for you all over town! How did you slip away?"

"Oh, Uncle Tim, I'm so sorry," replied the girl. "I walked into a shop to look at some dolls, and I meant to come right out, but I stayed longer than I expected. When I came out, I couldn't see you anywhere."

So that was it! Well, don't worry too much about it. I've found you now, and we'll go back to the ship at once and have your dinner."

Mr. Weston thanked the policeman for his helpfulness, and Roberts added her words of appreciation. Then the two returned to the Amundsen.

When the vessel left the harbor, heading toward Greenland, Allen found himself sitting on deck beside Dr. Barstow, who said to him:

"Some time ago I asked me about the 'main object' of the expedition. We have several objects, but most important of all is the search we are going to make in Greenland for remains of the three-toed horse."

"Were there really horses that had three toes on each foot?"

"Yes, indeed. Their bones have been found in North America, in Asia, and on other continents. The skeletons indicate that horses were of about the same size as foxes when they were three-toed. I have strong hopes that we shall find remains of the same kind of horses in Greenland."

"What do their foot bones look like?"

"On a piece of paper and handed it to him, saying, 'This will give you an idea of the foot formation.'"

NIAGARA IN FROM SYDNEY

Had Spell of Rough Weather in South Pacific, But Fair Seas Rest of Voyage

Brings Only Small List of Passengers, But Had Good General Cargo

Smooth seas between Honolulu and Victoria made up for the spell of rough weather encountered by the liner Niagara between Sydney and Auckland three weeks ago, it was reported on arrival of the ship at this port late yesterday afternoon. It is winter in the Antipodes now, and the Niagara met several days of choppy seas when running in southern waters. Other than this the voyage was a good one, Capt. T. V. Hill, commander, reported.

There was a total list of ninety-four passengers aboard. Of these twenty-two were in the first cabin, forty-eight in the tourist class and twenty in the third class. Several passengers disembarked here and left this morning for Seattle by the Ss. Iroquois. A number of those aboard were en route to England and will sail from Montreal, Quebec and New York for Europe during the next few weeks.

For Victoria the liner had ninety-eight tons of general cargo, including oranges and lemons, rabbit skins and wool. There were approximately 2,000 tons for Vancouver, United States mails were left here.

Passengers aboard were: E. Anson, com. prof. and Mrs. G. W. Benedict, C. P. Bowditch, J. W. Bradshaw, R. Courtney, S. P. Dixon, Mrs. E. R. Eynon, E. W. Gibson, Mrs. E. H. H. Jones, Mrs. H. Myers, A. O. Norwood, Mrs. P. Norwood, Miss M. Parsons, F. C. Peck, Mrs. A. Postlethwaite, J. Sinclair, J. W. Sutton, M. Sykes, Miss B. M. Tamblin, Miss J. N. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Adamson, Miss L. Adamson, Miss A. Amor, Mrs. H. Arthur, Mrs. M. E. Browne, Miss M. L. Blood, Miss M. Christian, Miss D. Dixon, Miss P. Dole, J. W. Eade, Mrs. C. M. Grant, Mrs. C. J. Gould, Mrs. M. Harper, Mrs. J. H. Harvey, Mrs. E. W. Isenberg, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Johnston, Capt. J. E. Law, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mecklenburg, Mrs. V. MacPhee, R. A. Newman, Miss H. C. Osmundson, Mrs. M. Parkinson, A. A. Peters, P. E. Thornton, Mrs. G. Beer, J. R. MacPhail, Mr. and Mrs. R. Steaser, L. Sullivan and R. T. Thomas.

The Niagara proceeded to Vancouver at midnight. She will be here again next Wednesday, on her return voyage to the South Sea. When she reaches Sydney she will be floated into drydock for overhaul. Her September voyages will be taken by the liner Monowai. The Ss. Aorangi, which has been receiving overhaul in Sydney, will arrive here next month.

On her way to the Orient to-morrow, the American Mail liner President Cleveland will sail from the Ogden Point pier. TO INQUIRE INTO CRASH

Ss. City of Baltimore Tied Up at Baltimore Following Daylight Mishap

Baltimore, July 14.—The liner City of Baltimore was towed carefully back to the harbor here yesterday and tied up at her pier while investigations were begun to determine the reason for her crash late Wednesday with the tanker Bescon.

Written reports from the masters of both vessels were awaited by Capt. Paul H. Tyler and Davis C. Young, the local board of federal steamboat inspectors, before they announced plans for the inquiry.

Officials of the Baltimore Mail Line, owners of the City of Baltimore, and the Standard Shipping Company, owners of the tanker, began an inquiry to see why the two vessels collided in the broad channel of the Chesapeake Bay in daylight.

The mail liner, which was run aground in twenty-four feet of water off Gibson Island soon after the accident occurred, was pulled off by three tugs and a coastguard cutter early yesterday and towed up the bay.
